Preface

What you have here is a collection of Bible verses—nearly all of the great and notable passages from the books of Psalms, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes—that is intended to serve as instant edification for the reader in the dangerous statist world around us, where men are going to need to be regularly in and out of the word of God if they are to be equipped with the tools and ideas needed to navigate the Egyptian bondage we're living under. For further edification, I have provided the first Christian Anarchist thoughts and comments that came to my mind when I read them, which I hope can build up those who are already close to the truth and serve as a heavy lesson for all the lost idolaters in the world who still think that God approves of their statism and who don't see where things are headed. Since most Christians today are entirely unfamiliar with the Old Testament, as well as filled mostly with ideas that were fed to them by false pastors, false prophets, and regime theologians, these comments will be shocking to those who haven't yet realized that God is an anarchist who hates statism, smashes the human governments of the world that are set up against Him by sinners in their rebellion against God, and whose instruction is essentially centered around providing men with the divine understanding needed get out of Egypt by turning back to the Lord as their only God and Savior. Though I intend to cover the whole Bible, I have decided to go with books that are saturated with urgently-needed wisdom and lessons from God to try and quickly supply the Biblical stimulus that men are desperately need to get hit with, as they have hitherto refused to turn away from their idolatry for human government and their praise for the false gods who operate these institutions. No doubt, the statist idolaters who refuse to repent for their sins will be infuriated by my comments. Nevertheless, we are not here to be fun at parties or have flattering lips, but to agitate the sleeping masses out of their slumber, slothfulness, simple-minded ways, and their lack of knowledge that has wound them up in Babylonian captivity. May the scriptures alone, as well as my comments here, serve to build people up in the way that we promptly need to go: repenting of supporting the kingdoms of man, and seeking the Kingdom of God alone, at their exclusion.

The Psalms

- Blessed is the man who walks not in the counsel of the ungodly.<sup>1</sup>
- [Blessed is the man who] stands [not] in the way of sinners.<sup>2</sup>
- [Blessed is the man who] sits [not] in the seat of the scornful.<sup>3</sup>
- [Blessed is the man whose] delight is in the law of the Lord.<sup>4</sup>
- In His law [do we] meditate day and night.<sup>5</sup>
- Sinners [shall not stand] in the congregation of the righteous.<sup>6</sup>
- The Lord guards the path of the righteous.<sup>7</sup>
- The way of the ungodly shall perish.<sup>8</sup>

---

<sup>1</sup> Though the people of the world counsel men to vote for politicians, run for office, join the military, become a police officer, or accept the benefits of these covetous systems, men of God must reject this wicked advice.

<sup>2</sup> We are not to be associated with evil men, like the statist idolaters of the world, and judgment awaits those men who justify joining the payrolls of state plunderers (eg., police or military) or voting for these men.

<sup>3</sup> We must not become like the statist masses of the world who don't know the Lord, raise up endless objections against His anarchist Kingdom, and mock those who preach the anti-statist Gospel of Jesus.

<sup>4</sup> Men who delight in God's Law will be blessed, because they would never—against the command to have other gods before Him—set up human governments that curse them into political bondage.

<sup>5</sup> Anyone seeking the Lord should abide in His word regularly, for the daily edification and upbuilding of the character needed to seek God's anarchistic Kingdom and lead others to join this righteous endeavor.

<sup>6</sup> As opposed to the modern "Christians" and "churches" so-called that venerate them as heroes, servants of the State and its ideologues are unrepentant men who are unwelcome in Kingdom-congregations.

<sup>7</sup> Whereas wicked men, like the statist predators of the world and all who walk on this evil path, are slated for destruction, the Lord watches over those who know Him and are prepared to seek the ways of His Kingdom.

- The kings of the earth rise up and the rulers band together against the Lord.<sup>9</sup>
- Serve the Lord with fear, and rejoice with trembling.<sup>10</sup>
- Blessed are all they that put their trust in Him.<sup>11</sup>
- O Lord, how my foes have increased! How many rise up against me!<sup>12</sup>
- You, O Lord, are a shield around me, my glory, and the One who lifts my head.<sup>13</sup>
- The Lord sustains me. I will not fear the myriads set against me on every side.<sup>14</sup>
- Arise, O Lord! Save me, O my God!<sup>15</sup>

<sup>10</sup> Men should fear the judgment of God that comes upon men who do things like set up systems of human civil government, so much so that they avoid this sin and run from it as if their lives depended on it.

<sup>11</sup> Men get destroyed when they trust in men and their systems of government for their salvation, which is what men inevitably do when they fail to trust in God alone and forsake the Lord as their King.

<sup>12</sup> Our world abounds with enemies of God and His children, namely those men who call themselves "the government," as well as their supporters among the population who support their predation.

<sup>13</sup> If we truly trust that God is our shield and buckler, then we cannot possibly claim that soldiers, police, presidents, and politicians are needed to "keep us free" and provide for our "public safety" and welfare.

<sup>14</sup> It has largely been the lack of faith in a providential provision of resources that men have abandoned God to trust in state rulers as their supposedly necessary service providers and "public servants."

<sup>15</sup> Unlike the statists of the world, who pray to the false gods of the State to save them from their real and imagined enemies, the men of the Bible prayed to God to save them from the State and its evil agents of plunder.

- Strike all my enemies on the jaw [O God]; break the teeth of the wicked.<sup>16</sup>
- Salvation belongs to the Lord.<sup>17</sup>
- How long will you love vanity and seek after lies?<sup>18</sup>
- The Lord hears when I call to Him.<sup>19</sup>
- Be angry, yet do not sin.<sup>20</sup>
- Trust in the Lord.<sup>21</sup>
- You alone, O Lord, make me dwell in safety.<sup>22</sup>
- My King and my God, to You I pray.<sup>23</sup>

---

<sup>16</sup> Godly men trust in the Lord alone to deal with their enemies, not human governments and armies, which is the main way men show their lack of faith in God as their King who fights their battles (1 Sam 8:19-20).

<sup>17</sup> Notwithstanding the false gospels of false gods whose campaigns promise to "save the country," salvation rests only in the Lord our God, who alone can bring the freedom, peace, and prosperity they falsely offer.

<sup>18</sup> Men stall on taking up the cause of God's Kingdom due to an endless flirtation with all the statist lies of the world, e.g., that salvation will arrive with the next president or that Babylon can be reformed.

<sup>19</sup> If men do not believe that God hears them in prayer, they will likely be tempted to enter into voting booths to pray to the false gods of the world to be their saviors and protectors from their enemies.

<sup>20</sup> There should always be righteous indignation in those men who see what God hates and to hate those things too, but we need never to let the statist drive us to real anger, revolt, or armed revolution.

<sup>21</sup> Men who trust in hundreds of different government institutions to protect and liberate them clearly defy the most basic commands of scripture to trust in the Lord alone.

<sup>22</sup> When men attribute their peace, safety, prosperity, and freedom to police officers, soldiers, and politicians, they flat-out deny that it is the Lord alone who can make men dwell in safety and keep them free.

<sup>23</sup> Unlike the statist of the world who pray to the false gods of human governments to be their saviors and liberators, Godly men pray to the Lord to keep them safe and free.

- You are not a God who delights in wickedness.<sup>24</sup>
- You hate all workers of iniquity.<sup>25</sup>
- The Lord abhors the man of bloodshed and deceit.<sup>26</sup>
- Lead me, O Lord, in Your righteousness, because of my enemies.<sup>27</sup>
- Not a word they speak can be trusted; destruction lies within them.<sup>28</sup>
- For surely You, O Lord, bless the righteous.<sup>29</sup>
- My eyes fail from grief; they grow dim because of all my foes.<sup>30</sup>
- Depart from me, all you workers of iniquity, for the Lord has heard my weeping.<sup>31</sup>

<sup>24</sup> There is nothing on earth more wicked than human systems of government, and thus statism is unsurprisingly one of the most abhorrent things to God, who hates all wickedness and sees king-seeking as evil.

<sup>25</sup> Though it has been said by men that we should "hate the sin and not the sinner," God's word is often focused on men themselves, such as agents of the State, who work iniquity in the world on behalf of its rulers.

<sup>26</sup> Pharaoh's "law enforcement" agents are abhorrent to the Lord, for they not only directly carry out the violence of political plunder systems, but also craft lies and deceit to justify and legitimize their crimes to men.

<sup>27</sup> There could hardly be anything more important for us to focus on than remaining innocent as doves while living under Egyptian captors who prey upon us and may seek to manufacture charges against us at any time.

<sup>28</sup> All that which proceeds from the mouth of human rulers is propaganda designed to deceive men into following them down the wicked path of furthering kingdoms that are erected against God's anarchist order.

<sup>29</sup> Though it can be discouraging seeing wicked men excel in a backward statist society as ours, we must always believe that God will bless those who seek His Kingdom and that we need not do evil for good to come.

<sup>30</sup> We are only experiencing the spiritual battle as the men of the Bible when we become discouraged at the abundance of statist enemies who surround us, both in the government and among the so-called brethren.

<sup>31</sup> God is on the side of those who have cried out to Him in prayer to save us from our enemies, and those statist who prey upon us ought to question where they stand in relation to the God we serve.

- All my enemies will be ashamed and dismayed.<sup>32</sup>
- O Lord my God, I take refuge in You; save me and deliver me from all my pursuers.<sup>33</sup>
- Arise, O Lord, in Your anger; rise up against the fury of my enemies.<sup>34</sup>
- Put an end to the evil of the wicked, but establish the righteous.<sup>35</sup>
- My shield is with God.<sup>36</sup>
- [God] feels indignation each day.<sup>37</sup>
- If one does not repent, God will sharpen His sword.<sup>38</sup>
- Sing praise to the name of the Lord Most High.<sup>39</sup>

<sup>32</sup> Though the statist, for ruling the day in our time, may proudly and arrogantly enjoy their status against us, eventually they will have to feel the hand of the Lord and better start preparing to meet their Maker.

<sup>33</sup> Though professing Christians today are heavenly-minded escapists who consequently trust in governments to save them on earth, the Biblical hope of salvation was to be physically liberated from statist predators.

<sup>34</sup> Though men today pray to be blessed while remaining in their Babylonian and Egyptian ways, Scripture shows that prayer is very often precisely about calling upon God to save us from statist.

<sup>35</sup> "The evil" men of Scripture were never just some vague, disorganized, or individual sinners who committed no specific deeds, but precisely those men who operate political plunder systems and the idolaters who support them.

<sup>36</sup> Though idolaters say we can trust in God and "support the troops," Scripture draws a sharp dichotomy between trusting in God or men for our protection, with no neutral ground for "dual allegiances."

<sup>37</sup> The main thing that grieves God daily is to see that the people who He created to seek His anarchist Kingdom on earth have instead involved themselves in the worldly governments of the devil.

<sup>38</sup> When men won't repent of the sin that has led to their support of human government, and seek the anarchistic Kingdom of God instead, they should expect God's anger to continue to grow against them.

<sup>39</sup> All of the praise given to God in the Bible should make it evident that praising human rulers with National Anthems and other slogans is strictly prohibited for Godly men, who trust the Lord alone to save them.

- You made [men] ruler of the works of Your hands.<sup>40</sup>
- You have rebuked the nations, You have destroyed the wicked.<sup>41</sup>
- The enemy has come to eternal ruin, and You have uprooted their cities.<sup>42</sup>
- The very memory of [the enemy] has vanished.<sup>43</sup>
- The Lord is a refuge for the oppressed, a stronghold in times of trouble.<sup>44</sup>
- Be merciful to me, O Lord; see how my enemies afflict me!<sup>45</sup>
- The nations have fallen into a pit of their making; their feet are caught in the net they have hidden.<sup>46</sup>

<sup>40</sup> The Dominion Mandate that God gave us was to seek His Kingdom on earth, but it was never to be extended to having dominion or rule over other men, which God reserved for Himself as the King of free men.

<sup>41</sup> The main enemies of God on earth are those human rulers who, since the days of Cain and Nimrod, have raised up systems of human government against Him and His people, only to be destroyed in the end.

<sup>42</sup> What God does for those who abandon their belief in human kings and place their trust in the Lord as their only King, is to judge all the enemy statisticians who ever came against us by destroying them from our presence.

<sup>43</sup> Though all men know today is the statist slave society and the ideological belief in human government, we look forward to a day where their very memory of human rule has evaporated from our minds.

<sup>44</sup> State rulers deliberately destroy society so they can seek "order out of chaos" and further drive men away from God's anarchy and lead them to double-down their belief that "law and order" rests in police and soldiers.

<sup>45</sup> Though the prayers of men today focus on prospering while living like Egyptians who think that Pharaohs and chariot-operators provide our freedom, Biblical prayer is often an appeal to God to save us from Egypt.

<sup>46</sup> The statist plunder systems of the world, which both the rulers and the ruled believe can protect and secure them, only bring about destruction upon them, as judgment for the many wicked works of statism.

- The Lord is known by the justice He brings.<sup>47</sup>
- For the needy will not always be forgotten.<sup>48</sup>
- The hope of the oppressed [will not be] forever dashed.<sup>49</sup>
- Let the nations know that they are but men.<sup>50</sup>
- In pride the wicked pursue the needy.<sup>51</sup>
- Let [the wicked] be caught in the schemes they devise.<sup>52</sup>
- In his pride the wicked man does not seek [the Lord].<sup>53</sup>
- In all [the wicked man's] schemes there is no God.<sup>54</sup>

---

<sup>47</sup> Some of the best evidence for God is the destruction that human governments bring upon men, just as God warned would be the case for all those sinners who trust in men to save them, but only find divine justice.

<sup>48</sup> Though the lowly men of society are forgotten and oppressed when systems of political privilege are raised up to the benefit of evildoers, God knows our plight and plans to bring these plunder systems to an end.

<sup>49</sup> Though we are presently plundered by statist, and even so as a judgment for the sins that have supported these wicked systems of men, it is our great faith in the Lord that their schemes will not go on forever.

<sup>50</sup> The proud and arrogant men of our world set up States and make themselves into false gods (rulers), and we ought to pray to God to humble them and knock them off their thrones.

<sup>51</sup> State rulers and their officers of law not only prey upon the poor to take them for a plunder, but they do it under the proud delusion that they can get away with their evildoing and escape God's justice indefinitely.

<sup>52</sup> We might always pray that the snares, traps, and tricks that evil statist mean for our destruction, will only be turned around on them and be their demise—that all the conspiracies of the rulers will only hurt them.

<sup>53</sup> Though God may use human rulers to achieve His ends of judgment on wicked statist who pursue these systems in their sin, state rulers are never self-conscious "servants," but always men who do not know God.

<sup>54</sup> State rulers are so full of pride and blind to the consequences of their evils, they think—this is their great weakness—that God doesn't even exist to see their evils, take note, and eventually judge them (Psa 10:11).

- [The wicked] lie in wait near the villages; in ambush [they] slay the innocent.<sup>55</sup>
- [The wicked's] eyes watch in stealth for the helpless.<sup>56</sup>
- [The wicked] lie in wait like a lion in a thicket; [they lurk] to seize the oppressed.<sup>57</sup>
- [The wicked] catch the lowly in [their] net.<sup>58</sup>
- [The wicked] say, "God has forgotten; He hides His face and never sees."<sup>59</sup>
- Why do the wicked get away with despising God?<sup>60</sup>
- [The wicked man] says to himself, "[God] will never call me to account."<sup>61</sup>

---

<sup>55</sup> Among the men who the Bible calls "the wicked" are men who enforce the "laws" of Egyptian-statist political systems, who set up roadblocks to rob, kidnap, or murder men who run afoul of Pharaoh's legal decrees.

<sup>56</sup> We have become prey not only for outsourcing our duty to protect and serve each other to human rulers who plunder us instead, but also for this accompanying failure to seek God's anarchist Kingdom of mutual service.

<sup>57</sup> The sole purpose of human government, at least in the eyes of those who control them and are not deceived about their wicked objective, is to prey upon and plunder the masses of people who they see as their slaves.

<sup>58</sup> We ought to be casting a wide evangelist net of our own to find those sheep who are ready to build God's Kingdom with us, because the enemy State is actively casting a net for slaves and reeling in many poor fish.

<sup>59</sup> A major weakness of the men behind the world's political plunder schemes is that they do not think God is watching them commit their evils, when, in fact, He sees it all and has a special treat planned for them.

<sup>60</sup> Though it often seems as if the evil men who rule the world are escaping judgment and resting easy, which often serves as a source of our discouragement and even complaint, we can rest-assured that God sees.

<sup>61</sup> The pride of the evil statist of the world is that they believe they can get away with their plunder schemes forever, thinking that God never sees their wicked schemes and that no one could ever stop them.

- Break the arm of the wicked evildoers.<sup>62</sup>
- Call [the evildoers] to account...until none [are] left to be found.<sup>63</sup>
- The Lord is King forever and ever; the nations perish from His land.<sup>64</sup>
- Vindicate the fatherless and oppressed, that the men of the earth may strike terror no more.<sup>65</sup>
- In the Lord I take refuge.<sup>66</sup>
- [The Lord] hates the lover of violence.<sup>67</sup>
- On the wicked [the Lord] will rain down fiery coals and sulfur.<sup>68</sup>
- Help, O Lord, for the godly are no more.<sup>69</sup>

<sup>62</sup> Though the idolaters seek salvation in the State because they fear other statistis, only for it to become their very enemy, men of God never fear, knowing our Lord breaks the arms of Pharaohs and their officers.

<sup>63</sup> Rather than think that we could fight our way out of Egypt on our own in a shooting war with Pharaoh and his officers, we ought instead to pray for the Lord to destroy the statistis of the world and liberate the captives.

<sup>65</sup> Our earth has always been filled with evil statistis whose sole purpose has been scheming against God's children, and we ought to be calling upon the Lord to remove them so we can live freely under His anarchy.

<sup>66</sup> It is impossible for any statist—one who believes in human government or partakes in its politics—to claim that their refuge is in the Lord, for they have clearly chosen men as their refuge and shelter.

<sup>67</sup> It is not something so insignificant as a love for the sport of boxing that God hates when He says He hates violence, but precisely those who praise the State and its violence and those who serve these wicked systems.

<sup>68</sup> Though God uses human government to judge those men who are evil enough to erect and support these inherently wicked institutions, eventually these evil systems become the targets of divine judgment, too.

<sup>69</sup> Everywhere we turn our world seems hopelessly filled with statistis, whether false converts who profess the Lord's name but serve the kingdoms of the world as His enemies, or the state rulers themselves.

- The faithful have vanished from among men.<sup>70</sup>
- I will bring safety to Him who yearns.<sup>71</sup>
- The vilest of men are exalted.<sup>72</sup>
- Consider me and respond, O Lord my God, lest my enemy say, "I have overcome him."<sup>73</sup>
- The fool says in his heart, "There is no God."<sup>74</sup>
- The Lord looks down to see if any understand and seek God. All have turned away.<sup>75</sup>
- Will the workers of iniquity never learn?<sup>76</sup>

<sup>70</sup> It's a lonely world for the children of God who see through the evils of its political systems, so much that isolated Elijahs can feel as if they're the only remnant left standing and that it isn't worth it to go on any longer.

<sup>71</sup> Men cannot say they yearn for the Lord's salvation when they seek it in soldiers or police, and they can only believe that God would not protect them in the way they believe States can because they have not yearned for it.

<sup>72</sup> In our world where evil is praised and good is mocked, men regard thieves, murderers, child traffickers, satanists, and pedofiles, as heroes and protectors, while disparaging God's anarchists as "terrorists" and fools.

<sup>73</sup> We should be calling on God to smash our statist enemies for us, lest these proud men believe they truly are unstoppable and invincible gods who rule over us with absolute impunity.

<sup>74</sup> The assumption of all men who embark upon worldly political ambitions is that there is no God to organize society, nor to stop them from acting as the central planners of an artificially-created social order.

<sup>75</sup> When God looks down at such statist societies as ours today and sees men idolizing rulers, He sees unfaithful rebels who hate Him and live in an active revolt against the anarchistic Kingdom He called us to seek.

<sup>76</sup> As much as God repeatedly brings justice down against state rulers and their followers with His crushing judgments, still these hardheaded men continue in their evil ways and refuse to be corrected even in captivity.

- [Workers of iniquity] devour My people like bread; they never call upon the Lord.<sup>77</sup>
- Walk with integrity, practice righteousness, speak the truth from [your] heart.<sup>78</sup>
- I said to the Lord, "You are my Lord, apart from You I have no good thing."<sup>79</sup>
- I have avoided the ways of the violent.<sup>80</sup>
- My steps have held to Your paths; my feet have not slipped.<sup>81</sup>
- Keep me as the apple of Your eye.<sup>82</sup>
- Hide me in the shadow of Your wings from the wicked who assail me.<sup>83</sup>

<sup>77</sup> The wicked statist who rule the world and rob and murder God's children are not men who know the Lord or seek to serve Him, but are children of the devil who feast their eyes upon the flesh of men.

<sup>78</sup> Every man of God must be a personal and vocal witness to the statist culture around him, such that men start to heed his words of warning, rebuke, and correction, and begin to seek God's Kingdom on his example.

<sup>79</sup> When men do not believe that apart from the Lord they have nothing, they naturally attribute everything they have to presidents, soldiers, and police officers, who they believe secured their "freedom" and "order."

<sup>80</sup> If men listened to God and served Him alone, they would never become politicians, soldiers, police officers, tax collectors, or servants of Pharaohs and Caesars otherwise, who are the men of violence whom God despises.

<sup>81</sup> The statist of the world, whether the ideological supporters of human government or men who serve Pharaohs directly, have veered from the narrow gate of God's Kingdom and are on the wide path of destruction.

<sup>82</sup> We should always hope and pray that God looks upon us with favor, considering how numerous our enemies are in both the government and among the millions of men in the population who support these evils.

<sup>83</sup> Seeking protection in the Lord is our only hope for safety from the statist enemy that preys on us, who, after all, have only come as divine judgment upon us for our sins and a curse that needs to be reversed.

- [Hide me] from my mortal enemies who surround me.<sup>84</sup>
- [Evil men] have tracked us down, and now surround us.<sup>85</sup>
- [Evil men's] eyes are set to cast us to the ground.<sup>86</sup>
- Arise, O Lord, confront [these evil men]! Bring them to their knees.<sup>87</sup>
- Deliver me from the wicked by Your sword.<sup>88</sup>
- The Lord is my rock, my fortress, and my deliverer.<sup>89</sup>
- My God is my rock, in whom I take refuge.<sup>90</sup>
- [God is] my shield, and the horn of my salvation, my stronghold.<sup>91</sup>

<sup>84</sup> We are surrounded by evil statist, but among the ruling elite and the population, and we need the Lord to protect us from these men as they come against us and look to keep us from building God's Kingdom.

<sup>85</sup> Whereas the statist predators of Bible times had to resort to more primitive methods of spying upon men and seizing them, today these same evil men have a full-blown, technocratic surveillance state.

<sup>86</sup> The life-purpose of the wicked men who serve systems of human government, like "lawmakers" or "law enforcers," is to destroy the lives and liberties of individuals among the public who they exist to prey upon.

<sup>87</sup> Though God allows human rulers as a judgment against wicked statist who need to feel the effects of their own wickedness, they are but an instrument of divine justice and will be judged by God for their evils, too.

<sup>88</sup> Whereas statist trust the sword of the State to save them and think police "protect and serve" us and soldiers "fight for our freedom," men of God trust in the sword of the Lord to save them precisely from statist.

<sup>89</sup> The statist simply cannot profess with the men of the Bible that the Lord is their Rock and Shield, for their ideology places this faith among soldiers, police, and presidents.

<sup>90</sup> Statist cannot say the Lord is their Rock and Deliverer, for to be a statist is precisely to take refuge under Pharaoh's shade and assert that it is the work of authoritarians that orders society and brings freedom.

<sup>91</sup> Biblical prayers show that salvation was never just some purely otherworldly idea of going to heaven when we pass away from the earth, but very much about being saved from rulers in the here-and-now.

- I will call upon the Lord...so I shall be saved from my enemies.<sup>92</sup>
- In my distress I called upon the Lord.<sup>93</sup>
- He rescued me from my powerful enemy, from foes too mighty for me.<sup>94</sup>
- All His ordinances are before me; I have not disregarded His statutes.<sup>95</sup>
- To the pure You show Yourself pure, to the crooked You show Yourself shrewd.<sup>96</sup>
- You save an afflicted people, but You humble those with haughty eyes.<sup>97</sup>
- For in You I can charge an army, and with my God I can scale a wall.<sup>98</sup>

<sup>92</sup> Notwithstanding the heavenly-mindedness of modern Christianity, the Biblical hope for salvation was always about calling upon God to save on earth and today, i.e., to deliver us from the political bondage we are in.

<sup>93</sup> Whereas statists run into disasters of their own making and once again call upon the government to save them with even more legal decrees and more police, the Biblical faith is to trust in God even amidst disaster.

<sup>94</sup> One lesson lost on anarchists who do not know the Lord is that States are indeed too powerful and evil for us to take on, that they have come upon us as a judgment for sin, and that we are in need of a Savior.

<sup>95</sup> The man who meditates on God's Law daily would never support systems of human civil government, whose statute books and legal decrees he knows to be raised up and furthered in violation to it.

<sup>96</sup> God has no need to judge those who seek the ways of His anarchist Kingdom, but unto the crafty men of the world who scheme against Him and His children with their political conspiracies, He is "terrible."

<sup>97</sup> Though the powerful men of the world believe they are unstoppable in their subjugation of the enslaved masses, eventually God turns the tables on these men and crushes them in judgment.

<sup>98</sup> It is not only useless, but dangerous, for men to form abolitionist movements, Kingdom congregations, free communities, or militias without God on their side, yet with Him they can accomplish anything.

- His way is perfect.<sup>99</sup>
- The word of the Lord is flawless. He is a shield to all who take refuge in Him.<sup>100</sup>
- Who is God besides the Lord? And who is the Rock except our God?<sup>101</sup>
- God...arms me with strength and makes my way clear.<sup>102</sup>
- You have armed me with strength for battle.<sup>103</sup>
- You have made my enemies retreat before me.<sup>104</sup>
- God...delivers me from my enemies.<sup>105</sup>
- You rescue me from violent men.<sup>106</sup>

<sup>99</sup> Though statisticians find their perfection in presidents, "founding fathers," or statist documents like "constitutions," these are but failed imitations of God's perfect law of liberty that never bring them liberty.

<sup>100</sup> To trust in human government for "national defense" and "public safety" is a denial of the salvation-promises of the Lord, who does these things for the faithful men who reject the salvation-promises of statisticians.

<sup>101</sup> To have the Lord as your only God necessarily requires men to reject the idea of human rulers, who are false gods who—this is their gospel—falsely offer promises of salvation to those who trust in them.

<sup>102</sup> How lost would we be navigating the wicked terrain of our statist society without the Lord on our side to show us the way we should walk: seek the Kingdom of God and never go the way of Egypt again.

<sup>103</sup> We are absolutely nothing without God on our side, and every movement, revival, or revolution that seeks liberation from human government without God on it cannot succeed against the enemy.

<sup>104</sup> We ought to believe that as we go and evangelize the world with the gospel of God's Kingdom, that He can cause those tyrants who will want to remove us to scatter and flee as we stand in protest.

<sup>106</sup> Biblical salvation was always God saving men from the consequences of their sin (being ruled by men) and not just some vague conception of "saved from hell" that has nothing to do with this life.

- The Law of the Lord is perfect, reviving the soul.<sup>107</sup>
- The testimony of the Lord is trustworthy, making wise the simple.<sup>108</sup>
- The precepts of the Lord are right, bringing joy to the heart.<sup>109</sup>
- The commandments of the Lord are radiant, giving light to the eyes.<sup>110</sup>
- The judgments of the Lord are true, being altogether righteous.<sup>111</sup>
- Cleanse me from my hidden faults.<sup>112</sup>
- Some trust in chariots and others in horses, but we trust in the name of the Lord our God.<sup>113</sup>

<sup>107</sup> Men are living in darkness when they trifle with man-made law systems to legislate their societies for them, but the Lord could soften their hearts and show them the futility in appealing to false gods.

<sup>108</sup> The word of the Lord is capable of bringing men out of their simpleminded ways, where they have bought into all the enslaving statist fallacies of the world under their failure to seek divine wisdom.

<sup>110</sup> When men find the Lord, they are no longer blind to the evils of the world and its systems, but have their eyes opened to the divine call to seek His Kingdom and repent of serving man's kingdoms.

<sup>111</sup> Though men treat God as a tyrant for destroying a people who sinfully sought human rulers as their gods, these judgments are but a just recompense for this political rebellion of men.

<sup>112</sup> We ought to be calling out to the Lord to make us as pure as possible as we act as ambassadors and agitators of the Kingdom of God and call men to repent of walking on the statist path and begin seeking it with us.

<sup>113</sup> Trusting in human governments and their armies and police forces for one's freedom, law, and justice, is the characteristic mark of an ungodly man, who has no faith in the Lord to save them from their enemies.

- Be not far from me [Lord], for trouble is near, and there is no one to help.<sup>114</sup>
- Deliver my soul from the sword, my precious life from the power of wild dogs.<sup>115</sup>
- The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.<sup>116</sup>
- [The Lord] makes me lie down in green pastures; He leads me beside quiet waters.<sup>117</sup>
- Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil.<sup>118</sup>
- The earth is the Lord's, and the fullness thereof, the world and all those who dwell therein.<sup>119</sup>
- In You, my God, I trust.<sup>120</sup>

<sup>114</sup> Nothing could be more important spiritually for us, amid the Egyptian captivity that we have found ourselves living under, than to constantly call for the Lord to be on our side against these wicked men.

<sup>115</sup> The human rulers of the world are like a pack of wild dogs, ever on the prowl to maul someone, bring in a new source of revenue for the kingdoms they serve, or fill their courts, jails, prisons with more bodies.

<sup>116</sup> Churchians will recite Psalm 23 from memory and yet never believe that the Lord would literally protect and serve those who trust in Him, and so they turn their trust to police and soldiers instead for these things.

<sup>117</sup> Unlike the prison-police state that men have erected in their political rebellion against God's Kingdom, the Lord offers us a peaceful society free of statist predators for those who seek His literal Kingdom.

<sup>118</sup> All statist societies are a valley of the shadow of death that stand as a constant threat to those who live within their territory, yet we must fear the Lord alone as we walk in it, lest we take our eyes off God's Kingdom.

<sup>119</sup> Many Christians often display a heavenly-minded aversion to all things earthly, failing to distinguish calls to reject the world (ie., political systems) from God's earth, thus neglecting to seek His Kingdom in the present.

<sup>120</sup> Our faith in God must be a total one that leaves no room for the idea that we are in need of human governors, armies, or police forces to protect us, which is the very way men demonstrate their distrust in God.

- Do not let me be put to shame; do not let my enemies exult over me.<sup>121</sup>
- Show me Your ways, O Lord; teach me your paths.<sup>122</sup>
- Guide me in Your truth and teach me, for You are the God of my salvation.<sup>123</sup>
- Good and upright is the Lord, therefore He shows sinners the way.<sup>124</sup>
- The Lord's ways are loving and faithful to those who keep His covenant and decrees.<sup>125</sup>
- The Lord confides in those who fear Him, and reveals His covenant to them.<sup>126</sup>

<sup>121</sup> As it stands, our Babylonian captors want to destroy us, yet we hold to a faith that God will destroy these men and put those men to shame who have sought to destroy us and keep us as their slaves.

<sup>122</sup> If men had ever actually sought the wisdom of the Lord, rather than the teachings of false prophets, God would show them that the statist ways of the world are contrary to the anarchist politics of His Kingdom.

<sup>123</sup> Those who have found their salvation—their provision of law, justice, protection, and welfare—in human government have surely never sought God's ways, because God would never counsel men to trust in men.

<sup>124</sup> The guidance that God gives men is to repent from supporting the statist kingdoms of man, which is the wicked works of sinners who are lost in the world, and to begin seeking the Kingdom of God instead.

<sup>125</sup> God's blessings are reserved for those who obey His Law and seek His Kingdom, and it does not make Him evil or unjust that man's statist rebellion against His rule invites the divine curse of bondage instead.

<sup>126</sup> Those who have not seen that they must seek God's Kingdom in exclusion to the statist kingdoms of the world have not yet feared the Lord enough to have been shown this divine wisdom.

- My eyes are always on the Lord, for He will free my feet from the net.<sup>127</sup>
- Consider my enemies, for they are many.<sup>128</sup>
- I do not sit with deceitful men, nor keep company with hypocrites.<sup>129</sup>
- I hate the mob of evildoers, and refuse to sit with the wicked.<sup>130</sup>
- When the wicked came upon me to devour my flesh, my enemies and foes stumbled and fell.<sup>131</sup>
- Though an army encamps around me, my heart will not fear.<sup>132</sup>
- Though a war breaks out against me, I will keep my trust.<sup>133</sup>

<sup>127</sup> If we focused on the Lord's ways, we could never be trapped by the snares of statism that scoop men up into their courthouses, prisons, and legal systems, because we would be building God's Kingdom instead.

<sup>128</sup> Far from asking God to consider our enemies for us, most men are statists who are begging human rulers—the very enemies of our freedom—to watch over, care, protect, serve, and provide for them.

<sup>129</sup> State servants, like police officers and soldiers, cannot confess to have walked with integrity before the Lord, no matter how much some "chaplain" assures them that their service to Pharaoh is "serving God."

<sup>130</sup> State servants, like police officers, cannot tell the Lord they have avoided violent men and refused to sit with them, for they have joined forces with these legalized gangsters and made friends with evil men.

<sup>131</sup> No one can prevail against us with God on our side, and the common belief of statists that anarchism leaves us open to being attacked and subjugated by others shows just how little they know the Lord.

<sup>133</sup> Adversity is a critical point at which men lose faith in God and run to state rulers for protection, and States, knowing this weakness in men, cause chaos and fear to exploit it and lead men to run into their arms.

- Teach me Your way, O Lord, and lead me on a level path, because of my oppressors.<sup>134</sup>
- [They] speak peace to their neighbors, while malice is in their heart.<sup>135</sup>
- Repay them according to their deeds, and for their works of evil.<sup>136</sup>
- Repay them for what their hands have done.<sup>137</sup>
- Bring back on [the workers of evil] what they deserve.<sup>138</sup>
- [Repay them] since they show no regard for the works of the Lord.<sup>139</sup>
- The Lord is my strength and my shield.<sup>140</sup>

---

<sup>134</sup> Our urgent need for the wisdom and guidance of the Lord today is that we are surrounded by government predators and need to get on the straight path again to avoid finding their boots directly on our necks.

<sup>135</sup> Pharaoh's police forces claim to exist for "public safety" and "law and order," which manages to deceive most people, but their real purpose is preying upon men and bringing in revenue for their masters.

<sup>136</sup> We would not be entirely out of line with Scripture to call upon the Lord to bring His heavy hand of judgment against the state rulers of the world who have sought to devour us with their man-made law-systems.

<sup>137</sup> The evil men who rule the world and control and serve its governments, all which are of the devil, are due for divine judgment for the wicked works of their bloodstained hands.

<sup>138</sup> Though we should keep Christ's call to love our enemies foremost on our minds, we would also be in keeping with the psalmists to pray to God to destroy the wicked rulers of our world who enslave the masses.

<sup>139</sup> The ungodly statists of our world, who think they're exempt from God's law and sight, are going to find out the hard way that God destroys evil and that they are not at all exempt from His judgments.

<sup>140</sup> Far from being vulnerable to many different enemies without human rulers, it is only in the Godly anarchist society that men can actually find security from predation; statism guarantees that men are plundered.

- The Lord is the strength of His people.<sup>141</sup>
- In You, O Lord, I have taken refuge.<sup>142</sup>
- You are my rock and my fortress.<sup>143</sup>
- They conspire against me and plot to take my life.<sup>144</sup>
- Deliver me from my enemies and from those who pursue me.<sup>145</sup>
- Let the wicked be put to shame.<sup>146</sup>
- I will instruct you and teach you the way you should go.<sup>147</sup>
- I will give you counsel and watch over you.<sup>148</sup>

<sup>141</sup> Godly men do not rely on state militaries or police forces to protect them, but trust in the Lord even for things like defense and law, which sinners think are "public goods" to be outsourced to human rulers.

<sup>142</sup> Statists cannot sincerely claim that they have made the Lord their refuge and trust, because seeking human government to be one's protector is the very way that men seek an alternative means of salvation.

<sup>143</sup> Godly men trust in the Lord to protect and secure them, and those who trust in human governments simply do not know the Lord or His gospel promise of salvation, or else they would have never turned aside to men.

<sup>144</sup> The predation of the State is not merely a random one, scooping up men whenever they happen to be found, but an organized and conspiratorial effort against men to take them down and trap them.

<sup>145</sup> Those who relegate God to a "spiritual" realm, who saves in the afterlife but not in the present, forget the relentless narrative of God physically saving men from their enemies (ie., Egyptian pursuers) on earth.

<sup>146</sup> It is God's people who are presently being put to shame by the rulers of the governments of the world, but we ought to pray to God that things are turned around on them at the hand of God.

<sup>147</sup> God shows men the way out of Egyptian bondage through repentance for the sins of statism that led to their captivity and by leading them to seek His Kingdom instead, but rarely have men ever sought this counsel.

<sup>148</sup> God rules over men in an anarchist society by pressing His Law on their hearts and guiding their footsteps for them, disproving any idea that we are in need of human rulers to stand between God and men.

- Let all the earth fear the Lord; let all the people of the world revere Him.<sup>149</sup>
- The Lord frustrates the plans of the nations; He thwarts the devices of the peoples.<sup>150</sup>
- Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord.<sup>151</sup>
- A horse is a vain hope for salvation; even its great strength cannot save.<sup>152</sup>
- Keep your tongue from evil and your lips from deceitful speech.<sup>153</sup>
- Turn away from evil and do good; seek peace and pursue it.<sup>154</sup>
- The face of the Lord is against those who do evil.<sup>155</sup>

<sup>149</sup> Though "Christian" Nationalists confine God's plan to modern nation-states and countries, the Great Commission is a "globalist" mission to transform hearts and minds and bring men into God's Kingdom.

<sup>150</sup> The political schemes of the people of the world are ultimately thwarted by God, who laughs upon men as they vainly pursue salvation through human government, only to find themselves in bondage.

<sup>151</sup> Only an anarchist society (i.e., a society where human rulers are absent) can be one where a people's only God is the Lord; statist societies are all necessarily ones where people have made men into their gods.

<sup>152</sup> Trusting in the armies of human governments for salvation is the foremost way that men prove themselves to be ungodly, and all such sinners will be sorely disappointed to find these men cannot save them.

<sup>153</sup> We should be more careful than ever what we say under the modern, growing surveillance state, "for a bird of the air may carry your words, and a winged creature may report your speech" (Ecclesiastes 10:20).

<sup>154</sup> If those currently serving the State in any capacity, whether as police officers or tax collectors, truly cared to follow God's word, they would resign their positions, repent of their evils, and turn back to the Lord.

<sup>155</sup> Though the men who serve the government of the devil, as its police officers or soldiers, like to imagine they are doing "the Lord's work," God sees them as evil men as has them marked for judgment.

- [The Lord will] wipe out all memory of [those who do evil] from the earth.<sup>156</sup>
- Evil will slay the wicked.<sup>157</sup>
- The haters of the righteous will be condemned.<sup>158</sup>
- Contend with my opponents, O Lord; fight against those who fight against me.<sup>159</sup>
- May those who seek my life be disgraced and put to shame.<sup>160</sup>
- May those who plan to harm me be driven back and confounded.<sup>161</sup>
- Without cause they laid their net for me.<sup>162</sup>
- Without reason they dug a pit for my soul.<sup>163</sup>

---

<sup>156</sup> Though evil men reign today, commanding the positions of power in the world's governments, God's great plan is to destroy these inherently ungodly institutions so thoroughly that they aren't even remembered.

<sup>157</sup> Statists bring recompense upon their own heads: the evil they sow against other men become the evils they reap (Psa 35:8), as all who live by the sword for political plunder die by the sword.

<sup>158</sup> Though statist idolaters tell us that human governments are the good guys punishing the bad guys, the truth is just the reverse: state rulers are evil plunderers who prey on the righteous and are bound for judgment.

<sup>159</sup> Those who argue that we must set up States for protection from other statists have never known the Lord as the God we are to call upon to fight our enemies for us and keep us safe under His anarchist order.

<sup>160</sup> As we saw with Jesus the Christ, state rulers will come for the very lives of those who preach another Kingdom than theirs, and anyone embarking upon this mission should pray that they be put to shame.

<sup>161</sup> We ought to always have faith that God may supernaturally frustrate the plans of those who come against us, such that they cannot succeed in their evil intentions or make mistakes while executing them.

<sup>162</sup> Contrary to those evil statists who assume that the only people who are beaten, caged, or killed by governments are criminals who invaded a man's liberty, scripture shows these men preying on non-criminals.

<sup>163</sup> One need not commit a genuine crime to be thrown in a cage by the State, and the Lord Jesus, His apostles, and the prophets of old, are all proof they prey upon and persecute the righteous.

- May the net they hid ensnare them; may they fall into the hazard they created.<sup>164</sup>
- [My enemies] do not speak peace.<sup>165</sup>
- They devise deceitful schemes against those who live quietly in the land.<sup>166</sup>
- May those who exalt themselves over me be clothed in shame and reproach.<sup>167</sup>
- Even on their beds they plot evil.<sup>168</sup>
- Let not the foot of the proud come against me.<sup>169</sup>
- [Let not] the hand of the wicked drive me away.<sup>170</sup>

---

<sup>164</sup> We might always pray that the schemes of government predators, such as the psyops they seek to launch unnoticed, end up backfiring and coming down on their own heads and end up being their own downfall.

<sup>165</sup> We must never think human governments arrive to bring peace or freedom to society, for such institutions are erected precisely to systematically wage war against men and their property.

<sup>168</sup> The scheming of the wicked men who rule the world knows no rest, and will continue for as long as the sins which originally erected this political conspiracy against men continues to empower their existence.

<sup>169</sup> The proud men of the Bible are the rulers of worldly governments, and those who arrogantly strap on boots to serve as one of Pharaoh's officers and follow his commands and orders to stomp on men.

<sup>170</sup> Those men who support or serve the State walk on the evil path of the world rather than the righteous one commanded by God, and we ought to pray for God to protect us from them as we seek His Kingdom.

- Do not fret over those who do evil; do not envy those who do wrong.<sup>171</sup>
- Trust in the Lord and do good.<sup>172</sup>
- Dwell in the land and cultivate faithfulness.<sup>173</sup>
- Do not fret when men prosper in their ways.<sup>174</sup>
- [Do not fret] when men carry out wicked schemes.<sup>175</sup>
- Refrain from anger and abandon wrath.<sup>176</sup>
- The evildoers will be cut off, but those who hope in the Lord will inherit the land.<sup>177</sup>
- Yet a little while, and the wicked will be no more.<sup>178</sup>

<sup>171</sup> One great temptation before men is the political temptation to join forces with the evil men who serve human governments upon seeing the wealth, power, and prestige they have obtained through their status.

<sup>172</sup> There is an aversion to righteousness among modern Christians, who are more interested in quoting "there is no one righteous" than seeking it themselves, yet God always calls us to seek the good and hate the evil.

<sup>173</sup> The one thing we should be busy about more than anything amidst our Babylonian captivity is ministering the word of God to others and calling them to build God's Kingdom with us and begin walking another way.

<sup>174</sup> Though many men see the prosperity and power of the wicked rulers and look to share in the plunder, we must never think about joining them for our survival and should trust in the Lord's vengeance against them.

<sup>175</sup> When men are not prepared to withstand the schemes of human rulers and trust in the Lord to tear them down, they are likely to seek to beat them by joining them—by running for office or seeking legislation.

<sup>176</sup> When men do not sufficiently trust in the Lord to protect and save them from their enemies, they are likely to lash out in anger and think of violent revolutions or even commanding the State apparatus themselves.

<sup>177</sup> It is our great Christian hope—the very message of salvation—that the Lord will liberate us from evil statists of the earth and free our lives and land from their political plunder and wicked systems.

<sup>178</sup> Contrary to those who seek an escape to some heavenly afterlife and retreat from the mission to seek God's Kingdom, Scripture speaks more of removing wicked men from the earth to make way for a free society.

- The meek will inherit the land and delight in abundant prosperity.<sup>179</sup>
- The wicked scheme against the righteous and gnash their teeth at them.<sup>180</sup>
- The Lord laughs, seeing [the] day [of the wicked] is coming.<sup>181</sup>
- The wicked have drawn the sword and bent the bow to bring down the poor and needy.<sup>182</sup>
- Better is the little of the righteous than the abundance of many who are wicked.<sup>183</sup>
- The arms of the wicked will be broken.<sup>184</sup>
- In the days of famine [you] will be satisfied.<sup>185</sup>

---

<sup>179</sup> Tithing to the false pastors of the institutional church for personal riches may be a false "prosperity gospel," because they do not even feed the sheep, but God's promises to bless the obedient were not made falsely.

<sup>180</sup> The men who rule the world do not simply rob the masses as a matter of course; they are hungry dogs who are thirsty for the blood, bodies, and property of the men who they dominate and rule.

<sup>181</sup> Though state rulers, in their pride, openly mock and laugh in the faces of those who they rule over, believing their political slave systems cannot be stopped, God is laughing at the day of their demise He plans for them.

<sup>182</sup> Contrary to those who think human governments are needed to help the poor and "marginalized" people of the earth, these socialist systems exist precisely to plunder men and keep them low.

<sup>183</sup> How much more glorious is it to know the word of God—this anarchistic gospel of another Kingdom—than to be a rich fool who is lost in worldly luxuries, delusions, and deceptions?

<sup>184</sup> Though statist plunderers think their rule will never come to an end, God's final vision for society is one where all the wicked statist of the world—from the power elite to their order-takers—will be no more.

<sup>185</sup> Though God promises to destroy the evil men of our world, He promises to feed His flock among such judgment, and we ought to be seeking His Kingdom today for our survival in the future.

- The wicked and enemies of the Lord will perish.<sup>186</sup>
- [The wicked and enemies of the Lord] will vanish, like smoke they will fade away.<sup>187</sup>
- The steps of a man are ordered by the Lord.<sup>188</sup>
- Turn away from evil and do good.<sup>189</sup>
- The Lord loves justice and will not forsake His saints.<sup>190</sup>
- The righteous will inherit the land and dwell in it forever.<sup>191</sup>
- The wicked lie in wait for the righteous, and seek to slay them.<sup>192</sup>
- Wait for the Lord and keep His way, and He will raise you up to inherit the land.<sup>193</sup>

---

<sup>186</sup> The main enemies of the Lord in our world are those men who have institutionalized their violence in the State, and it is our great Biblical hope that God will bring them down and destroy them.

<sup>187</sup> The foremost enemies of God are those men who are friends with the world, i.e., those who support the statist political systems of the earth that stand opposed to the anarchistic Kingdom of God.

<sup>188</sup> We need not delay in our repentance from worldly politics and urgent need to seek the Kingdom of God, for we know that the Lord will guide us in the way that we should go if only we would turn our feet from evil.

<sup>189</sup> Rather than turn from the wicked path of statism and seek the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, professing Christians cite "there is none who does good" (Romans 3:12) to excuse their own evildoings.

<sup>190</sup> God has not forgotten those of us who do care about the real justice and liberty of His anarchist Kingdom, to the abolition of man's perverted law systems that wicked-hearted men tolerate as just and moral.

<sup>191</sup> Against a purely heavenly idea of salvation where God's people are shipped off to heaven when they die, God often speaks of a salvation where evil men are removed from the earth instead.

<sup>192</sup> Those who seek God's anarchist Kingdom, which abolishes the kingdoms of men, must be aware that our world is infested by statists whose sole purpose is to keep their man-made plunder systems going.

<sup>193</sup> Though our land today seems hopelessly filled with state rulers who plunder us for all we're worth, God would remove these men from the earth and liberate us from their domination if we sought His Kingdom.

- The transgressors will all be destroyed; the future of the wicked will be cut off.<sup>194</sup>
- He rescues and saves [us] from the wicked, because [we] take refuge in Him.<sup>195</sup>
- Those who seek my life lay snares.<sup>196</sup>
- Those who wish me harm speak destruction, [and] plot deceit all day long.<sup>197</sup>
- Many are my enemies without cause, and many hate me without reason.<sup>198</sup>
- Blessed is the man who has made the Lord his trust.<sup>199</sup>
- [Blessed is the man] who has not turned to the proud.<sup>200</sup>

---

<sup>194</sup> The blindspot of the psychopathic predators who rule over the people of the world is that they're so proud and confident in their evildoing and scheming, they fail to realize God has them in His crosshairs.

<sup>195</sup> God would save us from the grip of state rulers and liberate us from their slave plantations, if only men would seek His anarchist Kingdom and stop searching for salvation through human government.

<sup>196</sup> We must walk around Babylon with caution, knowing that the political predators who conspire against us are always laying traps for men to fall in, which may provide an excuse for them to rob, kidnap, or murder us.

<sup>197</sup> One problem facing working men who now need to seek God's Kingdom on top of it is that state rulers, being funded by taxing our labor, are able to devote their full-time work to preying upon us.

<sup>198</sup> Though we only seek to show men the way out of Egypt through repentance because we care about them, nevertheless they hate us, realizing our very existence as Christian Anarchists is a rebuke to them.

<sup>199</sup> The only men who truly trust in the Lord are anti-statists, for setting up and supporting systems of human civil government is the very thing that men do when they don't trust in God to secure them.

<sup>200</sup> The characteristic "proud" men of the world, who have turned their eyes away from God, are those statists who rule over other men and those sinners in the public who provide patriotic support for their rule.

- May those who seek my life be ashamed and confounded.<sup>201</sup>
- May those who wish me harm be repelled and humiliated.<sup>202</sup>
- Blessed is the one who cares for the poor.<sup>203</sup>
- All who hate me whisper against me; they imagine the worst for me.<sup>204</sup>
- My soul thirsts for God.<sup>205</sup>
- Vindicate me, O God, and plead my case against an ungodly nation.<sup>206</sup>
- Deliver me from deceitful and unjust men.<sup>207</sup>
- With Your hand You drove out the nations.<sup>208</sup>

<sup>201</sup> We ought to believe that with the power of God on our side, confusion and error may be sent into the camp of our enemies who hatch plots against us, such that they may fail as they launch an attack against us.

<sup>202</sup> If we began to walk with God and turned away from the political systems of man, we can do so with the faith that He will take care of those who will fight against us and even embarrass them before others.

<sup>203</sup> If men practiced the pure religion of serving others, they wouldn't outsource their responsibilities to human rulers or partake in churchian rituals, but would take up this duty directly in a network of charity.

<sup>204</sup> Men of God will be conspired against from the top and bottom of a statist society, with both the rulers and their followers seeking to sabotage the righteous men who seek God's anarchist Kingdom.

<sup>205</sup> Only those who seek God's Kingdom by gathering their neighbors for mutual service are desirous of the Lord and His ways; those who further human governments or sit in churches are apathetic and slothful men.

<sup>206</sup> We must preach the gospel of God's Kingdom against hardheaded statists who have not wanted to hear it and still believe that Egypt is the source of their freedom, while trusting in God to open their eyes.

<sup>207</sup> Though statists trust in human governments to save them, which to be sure is always a competing theory of salvation, we trust in the Lord to save us from human governments and their systems of slavery.

<sup>208</sup> The statist idea that human rulers are necessary for protection is one that can only arise in the mind of a man who doesn't know the Lord who drowns Pharaohs for us, such that they turn to Pharaohs to save them.

- You are my King, O God.<sup>209</sup>
- Through You we repel our foes; through Your name we trample our enemies.<sup>210</sup>
- I do not trust in my bow, nor does my sword save me.<sup>211</sup>
- You save us from our enemies; You put those who hate us to shame.<sup>212</sup>
- Those who hate us have plundered us.<sup>213</sup>
- You have given us up as sheep to be devoured.<sup>214</sup>
- [God] knows the secrets of the heart.<sup>215</sup>

<sup>209</sup> If we truly believe that God is our King, then we cannot be statist who claim that we are in need of men to "go out before us and fight our battles" (1 Samuel 8:20), lest we reduce His kingship to nothing.

<sup>210</sup> It is not with the sword that we fight our statist enemies, but with the power of God on our side, who loves crushing the enemies of those righteous anarchists who seek His Kingdom and trust in His salvation.

<sup>211</sup> Those who place too much reliance on firearms, militias, or their own might in their battle against the evil statist systems of the world have neglected God's role in delivering from their enemies.

<sup>212</sup> God's role in fighting our enemies (ie., removing statist from our midst) has been so neglected under the heavenly-mindedness of modern Christians, that the majority trust in the government enemy to save them.

<sup>213</sup> When men disobey God and seek human rulers in their rebellion against His rule, they are handed over by God to the very enemies they sinfully sought to avoid by trusting in human government.

<sup>214</sup> It is naturally more unpopular to tell men about the flip-side of blessings: that God gives over disobedient statist into the hands of political plunderers, who stand as a curse and judgment to them.

<sup>215</sup> Millions of Roman-Americans profess the Lord's name with their lips and present themselves as righteous men, but God knows that inside they are wicked-hearted statist idolaters who haven't changed at all.

- God is our refuge and strength, an ever-present help in times of trouble.<sup>216</sup>
- Nations rage, kingdoms crumble; the earth melts when He lifts His voice.<sup>217</sup>
- Come, see the works of the Lord, who brings devastation upon the earth.<sup>218</sup>
- Be still and know that I am God.<sup>219</sup>
- I will be exalted among the nations, I will be exalted over the earth.<sup>220</sup>
- How awesome is the Lord Most High, the great King over all the earth!<sup>221</sup>
- God is the King of all the earth.<sup>222</sup>

<sup>216</sup> Most men seek safety in human governments when trouble arises and fail to see the downfall of their society as the result of their own wicked sowing, but Godly men do not fear and trust in the Lord to save them.

<sup>217</sup> The kingdoms of the world are standing only because God permits them to exist as a judgment against the statist sinners who support them, but they are not His perfect will and will eventually be divinely destroyed.

<sup>218</sup> Every empire and ruler that ever fell throughout history was but an example for all to see that God is active in tearing down everything that is raised up against His Kingdom and kingship.

<sup>219</sup> If men who slow down enough to trust the Lord, they would never fall for the alarmist schemes of human rulers that are meant to make men side with worldly governments while in a state of fear.

<sup>220</sup> Though false gods like presidents and congressmen are exalted in this backward, statist age of ours where men still rebel against God's rule, this is not the anarchist social order of God and will one day be reversed.

<sup>221</sup> If the Lord is our King, then we can have no other human kings and must view all of them as illegitimate against the Lord, who doesn't share His authority with other men and says a man cannot have two masters.

<sup>222</sup> God is not the "King over all the human kings" in some perverted sense where human kings fit into some hierarchy of rulers where God is just the head, but is the only legitimate King of the earth, period.

- God is our God forever and ever.<sup>223</sup>
- Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me.<sup>224</sup>
- [They] love evil more than good, falsehood more than speaking truth.<sup>225</sup>
- Strangers rise up against me.<sup>226</sup>
- Ruthless men seek my life—men with no regard for God.<sup>227</sup>
- He will reward my enemies with evil.<sup>228</sup>
- He has delivered me from every trouble.<sup>229</sup>
- Violence and strife [are] in the city.<sup>230</sup>

<sup>223</sup> The belief and confession that God is our God is an inherently anti-statist one that excludes men from having other gods (e.g., presidents) as their gods and calling other men their (civil) fathers.

<sup>224</sup> Statists need to repent and pray to the Lord to renew their darkened hearts, because they currently have wicked hearts that are animated by the satanic political ideology of the world that defends human governments.

<sup>225</sup> The "mighty men" (Psa 52:1) of our world who hold power in the satanic kingdoms of the world are not only bent on doing evil, but also crafting lies and narratives to support their violence and plunder.

<sup>226</sup> As we navigate our Babylonian society and preach the anarchistic Gospel of God's Kingdom and rebuke statist idolaters, we must be aware that the ungodly supporters of human government prey on people like us.

<sup>227</sup> It is not only that the people who rule the world and control its governments are plunderers who prey on other men; they are also men who hate God and have deliberately set themselves up as His enemies.

<sup>228</sup> Those who seek to crush their enemies or find justice through controlling the levers of political power are men who do not trust in the Lord to take vengeance for them and are only compromising with evil.

<sup>229</sup> The central claim of statists — that without human rulers, there would be trouble everywhere in society — is entirely contrary to all the men of the Bible, who trusted in God alone to protect and serve them.

<sup>230</sup> The observation of any prophet of God should be to point out that all human governments—contrary to statist idolaters who defend them as givers of law and order—are full of violence, plunder, injustice, and war.

- Destruction is within; oppression and deceit never leave the streets.<sup>231</sup>
- His speech is smooth as butter, but war was in his heart.<sup>232</sup>
- Be merciful to me, God, for men are hounding me; all day they press their attack.<sup>233</sup>
- My enemies pursue me all day long, for many proudly assail me.<sup>234</sup>
- In God I trust.<sup>235</sup>
- All their thoughts are on my demise.<sup>236</sup>
- They conspire, they lurk, they watch my steps while they wait to take my life.<sup>237</sup>

<sup>232</sup> Politicians may deliver a stunning speech about caring for the people and protecting them, but their true intentions are always mass plunder and enslavement of the people who they claim to serve.

<sup>233</sup> It is not only militarily, but also intellectually, that the enemies of God arise against those who defend His anarchistic Kingdom as being entirely antagonistic and distinct from the statist kingdoms of the world.

<sup>234</sup> Men today either trust in the State to save them or acquiesce to their rule because they are afraid of other men, but men of God trust in the Lord even as statist enemies surround them and look to take their life.

<sup>235</sup> This most basic profession of faith—I trust in God—is alone sufficient to expose how statisticians can only ever take the Lord's name in vain, because they are precisely people who trust in political rulers to save them.

<sup>236</sup> It is not just that state rulers happen to destroy men and property as they further their rule, but that these wicked men also have a personal hatred for godly men who seek to be free from their Babylonian systems.

<sup>237</sup> State rulers do not just sit around and wait for men to commit crime, as some sort of passive crime preventors, but they actively seek to entrap men, cause them to stumble, and manufacture charges against them.

- My soul is among the lions; I lie down with ravenous beasts.<sup>238</sup>
- [I am among] men whose teeth are spears and arrows.<sup>239</sup>
- [I am among men] whose tongues are sharp swords.<sup>240</sup>
- They spread a net for my feet.<sup>241</sup>
- I will sing Your praises among the peoples.<sup>242</sup>
- [Their] hearts...devise injustice.<sup>243</sup>
- [Their] hands...deal out violence on the earth.<sup>244</sup>
- Deliver me from my enemies, O my God.<sup>245</sup>

---

<sup>238</sup> Everyone who finds themselves living in a statist society needs to find God as a matter of emergency, because they are walking among His statist enemies who seek to devour them and run their society into the ground.

<sup>239</sup> Those who go down the statist road of social organization (i.e., the way of the world) have set up hungry dogs into power whose main objective will be to find men who they can sink their teeth into.

<sup>240</sup> The rulers of the world could never be successful on brute violence alone, but depend on spewing lies and propaganda from their mouths that can dupe the masses into accepting them as legitimate and necessary.

<sup>241</sup> State rulers watch the righteous, whose evangelism and agitation threatens to turn their artificial societies upside down—just as they stalked Jesus, His apostles, and the prophets, and worked to destroy them.

<sup>242</sup> It is not good enough to know it ourselves that God is the original anarchist who frees men from Egyptian bondage; we must teach other men of the Lord our Liberator and call upon them to repent with us.

<sup>243</sup> Though worldly men tell us human governments are essential to law and justice, these systems and their rulers, in fact, pervert law and justice as a judgment against those sinners who outsource it to them.

<sup>244</sup> The main men who deal out violence on earth and stand as the foremost enemies of God are not private criminals, but the men whose plunder has been made legal and whose violence is called "law."

<sup>245</sup> In sharp contrast to the statist of the world, who pray to false gods and their soldiers and police to save them from false enemies (e.g., immigrants), men of God cry out to God alone for liberty.

- Protect me from those who rise against me.<sup>246</sup>
- Deliver me from workers of iniquity, and save me from men of bloodshed.<sup>247</sup>
- They lie in wait for me, fierce men conspire against me.<sup>248</sup>
- Rouse Yourself to punish all the nations; show no mercy to the wicked traitors.<sup>249</sup>
- They return in the evening, snarling like dogs and prowling around the city.<sup>250</sup>
- Respond and save us with Your right hand.<sup>251</sup>
- Give us aid against the enemy, for the help of man is worthless.<sup>252</sup>

---

<sup>246</sup> Contrary to the statist of the world who turn to politicians, police, and soldiers for a perceived peace, freedom, and law and order, men of God trust in the Lord to protect us from these very men.

<sup>247</sup> The "workers of iniquity" and "men of bloodshed" in the Bible were never just some private "bad guys" or individual sinners, but always the men who have organized their violence into a so-called "government."

<sup>248</sup> Human governments not only have their origins in a violent and plunderous rebellion against God, but they inevitably become active conspiracies to draw more blood once they are set into motion.

<sup>249</sup> Statists are rebels against God and His anti-statist social order, and for all their work in furthering the worldly governments of the devil that work against His rule, we might call upon the Lord to destroy them.

<sup>250</sup> Between the pre-dawn police raids and the midnight "license checkpoints," those who are doing the work of the devil are men who labor around the clock to find people to rob, cage, and kill.

<sup>251</sup> We must always believe that if we began seeking God's Kingdom by gathering with our neighbors for mutual service, the Lord would once again put hands on Pharaoh and deliver us from the bondage of Egypt.

<sup>252</sup> Contrary to the statist masses who believe that presidents, lawmakers, and law enforcers are needed for peace and freedom, those who know the Lord trust in His salvation alone—precisely from these very men.

- Lead me to the rock that is higher than I.<sup>253</sup>
- You have been my refuge, a tower of strength against the enemy.<sup>254</sup>
- In God alone my soul finds rest.<sup>255</sup>
- Trust in Him at all times, O people.<sup>256</sup>
- Place no trust in extortion, or false hope in stolen goods.<sup>257</sup>
- The mouths of liars will be shut.<sup>258</sup>
- [O God], preserve my life from dread of the enemy.<sup>259</sup>
- [O God], hide me from the scheming of the wicked.<sup>260</sup>

---

<sup>253</sup> We will not be getting out of our Babylonian captivity by ourselves, and will soon enough need thousands of men to get grounded in the Lord as we face off with this great enemy of God and men, the State.

<sup>254</sup> As much as the wicked men of the world may boast of the power of their militaries, police forces, and technocratic surveillance systems, they are still no match for the Lord, who protects those who abide in Him.

<sup>255</sup> Between the rulers and the public, our world is full of evil statisticians who hate God and His people, yet we shall find rest from these wicked men knowing that "if God be for us, who can be against us?" (Romans 8:31).

<sup>256</sup> There is never a time when it becomes necessary to trust in men rather than God, as all social calamity, chaos, disorder, or so-called "national emergencies" are originally the result of that very error anyway.

<sup>257</sup> The tax-funded "public goods" that statisticians think will save and serve them eventually fail to feed and protect in the end, and the covetous practices of socialism prove to be a people's demise.

<sup>258</sup> As much as we struggle to stomach the propaganda coming from world rulers today, we rest content knowing that God will shut their mouths and expose their lies one day.

<sup>259</sup> There are comparatively few examples in the Bible of men praying to God to get them off the earth and into heaven, yet an abundance of prayers to God to save us now, on earth, and from its wicked rulers.

- [O God, hide me] from the mob of workers of iniquity.<sup>261</sup>
- [They] ambush the innocent in seclusion.<sup>262</sup>
- They speak of hiding their snares, [saying], "Who will see them?"<sup>263</sup>
- They devise injustice and say, "We have perfected a secret plan."<sup>264</sup>
- May God be gracious to us and bless us.<sup>265</sup>
- Our God is a God of deliverance.<sup>266</sup>
- Those who hate me without cause outnumber the hairs of my head.<sup>267</sup>
- I have become a stranger to my brothers.<sup>268</sup>

<sup>261</sup> The bloodthirsty dogs who seek political power and authority, whether as police or federal agents, are never working alone to accomplish their work, but run in packs to assure they can gang-up on men.

<sup>262</sup> It is when men, in their failure to build Kingdom's, are isolated from a community of neighbors looking after each other's welfare, justice, and liberty, that they are most susceptible to falling prey to state kidnapers.

<sup>263</sup> Though the proud rulers of the world foolishly believe that God will never uncover their crimes against humanity, they calculate quite correctly that the masses of men are too ignorant to see through them.

<sup>264</sup> The blindspot of the psychopaths who rule the kingdoms of the world is that they may actually be self-convinced that they will succeed in their global schemes, which they believe to be too perfect to be exposed.

<sup>265</sup> The evils of statism are a divine curse upon a sinful people who sought human kings rather than the Lord their King and who coveted their neighbors' property through them, yet we may pray for God's mercy.

<sup>266</sup> Christians today confine the Lord's saving power to receiving souls into heaven, yet the Biblical authors speak of physical liberation on earth from their enemies, such as state rulers and their Egyptian slave systems.

<sup>267</sup> There are an endless amount of statist who hate those of us who preach God's anarchistic Kingdom, because statist are characteristically the friends of the world who Jesus warned would come against us.

<sup>268</sup> False converts tell us "stop judging your fellow Christian brothers," but really they need to be rebuked, because statist are not our brothers at all, as their gods and fathers are the civil fathers of human governments.

- May their table become a snare; may it be a retribution and a trap.<sup>269</sup>
- Deliver me, O my God, from the hand of the wicked.<sup>270</sup>
- Those who wait to kill me conspire, saying, "God has forsaken him; pursue him and seize him."<sup>271</sup>
- [Those who wait to kill me conspire, saying], "There is no one to rescue him."<sup>272</sup>
- He will deliver the needy who cry out.<sup>273</sup>
- He will take pity on the poor and needy.<sup>274</sup>
- [He will] save the lives of the oppressed.<sup>275</sup>

<sup>269</sup> Though the rulers of the world sit comfortably and complacently in their high places, believing they can never be brought down by God or men, might we pray for God to turn their world upside down.

<sup>270</sup> Against the spiritualized idea of salvation today, the idea of salvation we consistently see in Scripture is calling on God for physical deliverance from the wicked statist of the world, who conspire to rob and murder us.

<sup>271</sup> Our enemy, the State, doesn't believe that God is watching over His children as they prey upon us, and they seek to slay us under their prideful thinking that we are without divine protection and all theirs to enslave.

<sup>272</sup> State rulers fail to consider that the Lord's salvation frees men from their rule by destroying them just as He did the Egyptians during the exodus, and so prey on us believing their evils are without consequence.

<sup>273</sup> If the needy of the earth would cry out to the Lord to save them and begin trusting in His providence, rather than praying to the socialist benefactors of authoritarian governments to serve them, He will hear it.

<sup>274</sup> Though allowing sinners to be dominated by rulers who impoverish and enslave them is a just punishment for turning away from God's anarchist society, the Lord will hear the prayers of those who repent.

<sup>275</sup> It was never just the plan of God that men would be saved into heaven; the Lord Jesus Christ came to break the chains of political oppression, set the captives free on earth, and liberate those who will seek His Kingdom.

- [He will] redeem [us] from oppression and violence.<sup>276</sup>
- Pride is their necklace; a garment of violence covers them.<sup>277</sup>
- Stretch...out [Your hand] to destroy them.<sup>278</sup>
- God is my King from ancient times.<sup>279</sup>
- The land is full of darkness and violence.<sup>280</sup>
- Do not let the oppressed retreat in shame.<sup>281</sup>
- He shall cut off the spirit of princes: he is terrible to the kings of the earth.<sup>282</sup>
- In the day of trouble I sought the Lord.<sup>283</sup>

<sup>276</sup> Though men make Christianity into a mere "religious" idea of believing in God to get to heaven, God's biggest concern for man has always been his political bondage and need for repentance and liberation.

<sup>277</sup> Pride and violence is the essential nature of men who rule over other men, and both are inherent to all systems of human government, which are never without them so long as they exist.

<sup>278</sup> A persistent, more or less never-ending theme in the Psalms is calling upon God to destroy our enemies for us, showing just how out of step statist are with Scripture to rely on human rulers to be their saviors.

<sup>279</sup> Only anarchists, who reject human government and know human rulers to be false gods, can sincerely confess that the Lord God is their King; statist are sinners who have forgotten their Maker.

<sup>280</sup> Though idolaters cannot identify anything wrong with a statist society, every land that departs from God's anti-statist Kingdom by constructing systems of human government is a land of darkness and violence.

<sup>281</sup> We ought to call upon God to punish our enemies for us, lest we be the ones doing the walk of shame from their evils and get marched into labor camps and lined up against the wall by their officers and order-takers.

<sup>282</sup> God's great enemies of earth have always been its human rulers, who illegitimately take authority and dominion over men that only rightly belongs to Him, making them the primary targets of divine judgment.

<sup>283</sup> There is no worse time to abandon God than when things are so desperate—the Babylonians are at the gates—that when it seems one must trust in men, yet most men cave here and seek salvation in a State.

- Put confidence in God, not forgetting His works, but keeping His commandments.<sup>284</sup>
- He worked wonders...in the land of Egypt.<sup>285</sup>
- [Men] did not believe God, or rely on His salvation.<sup>286</sup>
- We have become a reproach to our neighbors.<sup>287</sup>
- [We have become] a scorn and derision to those around us.<sup>288</sup>
- Rally Your mighty power and come to save us.<sup>289</sup>
- Our enemies mock us.<sup>290</sup>
- Restore us, O God.<sup>291</sup>

---

<sup>284</sup> Men demonstrate that they have no faith in God's salvation, or that they care to obey His Law against having other gods before the Lord, when they raise up statist systems to "protect and serve" them.

<sup>285</sup> One of the main ways God should be remembered, which is forgotten by those who trust in men, is that He saves us from statist by drowning their armies and sweeping Pharaohs and their officers out to sea.

<sup>286</sup> One of the main reasons men seek human rulers in the first place, or are afraid to leave their Egyptian bondage once they're in it, is that they don't trust God to provide for them in an anarchist society (Psa 78:11-16).

<sup>287</sup> The patriotic sinners of the world, who were once proudly spoke of all the glory and might of their man-made kingdoms, will increasingly be made to feel shame and disgrace as God destroys them for all to see.

<sup>288</sup> God intends the effects of trusting in men rather than God, like being ruled by absolute clowns, to be an embarrassing enough rebuke that men are led to trust in the Lord alone and seek His Kingdom exclusively.

<sup>289</sup> Whereas we should be crying out to God to save us from statist today, men are rather crying out to statists—their very enemy—to save them from the very perversions of law, justice, and social order they created!

<sup>290</sup> The ungodly men who rule the world are so confident they are in control that we have reached the point where they are rubbing their schemes in our faces and operating their evils in the open.

<sup>291</sup> Though we should be crying out to God to restore our society to His anarchistic Kingdom to the abolition of human government, statist are still begging false gods to "make America great again."

- There must be no strange god among you, nor shall you bow to a foreign god.<sup>292</sup>
- I am the Lord your God, who brought you up out of Egypt.<sup>293</sup>
- My people would not listen to Me...so I gave them up to their stubborn hearts.<sup>294</sup>
- If only My people would listen to Me [and] follow my ways, I would soon subdue their enemies.<sup>295</sup>
- Save [us] from the hand of the wicked.<sup>296</sup>
- With one mind they plot together; they form an alliance against You.<sup>297</sup>
- [The princes] said, "Let us possess for ourselves the pastures of God."<sup>298</sup>

<sup>292</sup> It was never just a hatred for pagan deities that God commanded us to have no other gods, but precisely that His jealousy extended in the direction of human rulers and man's idolatry for them.

<sup>293</sup> When men sinfully trust in human governments to protect, serve, and save them, they find themselves back in Egyptian bondage, and so God reminds us often that He is our escape-plan from man's rule.

<sup>295</sup> God has always offered His protection for those who seek His Kingdom, but men have always distrusted God's anarchy and claimed that human rulers and their armies and police forces were needed for freedom.

<sup>296</sup> It was never just that God "saves us from hell" where we spend an eternity with the devil, but that He saves men from the worldly systems of human government, all which are of the devil.

<sup>297</sup> The rulers of the world all work together to plot not only against God's children but God himself, and this global alliance of States and international organizations became more evident than ever in 2020.

<sup>298</sup> God gave the land of the earth for men to possess, but we abandoned our responsibility to take dominion and keep God's anarchist natural order and so found ourselves plundered by state rulers who have seized it.

- Blessed are those whose strength is in [God].<sup>299</sup>
- Restore us, O God of our salvation, and put away Your displeasure toward us.<sup>300</sup>
- You alone are God.<sup>301</sup>
- Teach me Your way, O Lord, that I may walk in your truth.<sup>302</sup>
- The arrogant rise against me, O God.<sup>303</sup>
- A band of ruthless men seeks my life, with no regard for You.<sup>304</sup>
- You crushed Rahab like a carcass.<sup>305</sup>
- You scattered Your enemies with Your mighty arm.<sup>306</sup>

---

<sup>299</sup> Blessings come upon those who trust in God, but those who trust in men (i.e., in human governments) are cursed with all the evils that inevitably arise and follow from raising up systems of human rule.

<sup>300</sup> Far from seeing human rulers as proof of God's judgment and the need to repent for God to reverse the curse of statism, most men think Roman political systems are divine blessings and pray to their rulers for reform.

<sup>301</sup> Scripture never has it that men must rank God above other gods (rulers) on some sort of hierarchical scale where Jesus is "King over the president," but that God alone is God and all other rulers are false gods.

<sup>302</sup> We should all be seeking the ways of the Lord and asking God to reveal His truths to us, for the world is full of lies and those who fall for them and walk in these ways end up as the slaves of men.

<sup>303</sup> "The arrogant" men of the Bible are never just some individual narcissists among the population, but always state rulers, who are so full of themselves that they believe they have a right to rule over other men.

<sup>304</sup> It is not only that the men who operate political plunder systems are thieves and murderers, but that they are characteristically the men who are in revolt against the Lord and stand as His main enemies.

<sup>305</sup> When God's full judgment finally comes down upon a statist society of men walking in the ways of the world, it is often a complete one, which entails the entire disappearance of a population or empire from history.

<sup>306</sup> Smashing systems of human government is a primary way that God is to be remembered: as a physical savior and liberator who crushes Egyptians to free His people from their yoke of political bondage.

- Because you have made the Lord your dwelling...no evil will befall you.<sup>307</sup>
- Though the wicked sprout like grass, and all evil doers flourish, they will be forever destroyed.<sup>308</sup>
- [O Lord] surely Your enemies will perish, evildoers will be scattered.<sup>309</sup>
- My eyes shall see the downfall of my enemies.<sup>310</sup>
- Render a reward to the proud [O Lord].<sup>311</sup>
- [Workers of iniquity] crush Your people, O Lord; they oppress Your heritage.<sup>312</sup>
- The Lord will not forsake His people.<sup>313</sup>

---

<sup>307</sup> Those who think God's anarchy is "chaos and disorder" fail to see that all they need to be free is to trust in the Lord, and that it is, in fact, their institutionalization of human government that makes their fears a reality.

<sup>308</sup> An inescapable theme of the Psalms, and the whole of Scripture for that matter, is that the wicked men of the world (i.e., the statisticians who cover the earth) will one day be destroyed to allow God's people to grow.

<sup>309</sup> Our enemies and God's enemies are the same: the plunderer statisticians of the world, whose rebellion against God is characterized by their desire to rule other men or to apologize for the existence of human rulers.

<sup>310</sup> What a glorious sight it would be if we were to witness the wrath of God against all the hardheaded statisticians of the world who refused to repent and thought their wicked systems of human government were eternal!

<sup>311</sup> "The proud" men of the world, whose pride is characterized by raising themselves up into positions of political power and beating on men with legal immunity, are due for their reward at the hand of God.

<sup>312</sup> God gave men dominion over the earth and its resources, but once they squandered their inheritance of liberty and extended this mandate to ruling over others, they soon found themselves and their land plundered.

<sup>313</sup> The faith that men place in human governments to protect and serve them is always founded in a lack of faith and belief that God will remember and be with those who seek His anarchistic Kingdom.

- Surely judgment will again be righteous.<sup>314</sup>
- Unless the Lord helped me, I would soon have settled in the silence of the grave.<sup>315</sup>
- Can a corrupt throne be Your ally—one devising mischief by decree?<sup>316</sup>
- They band together against the righteous and condemn the innocent to death.<sup>317</sup>
- [God] will bring upon [the wicked] their own iniquity.<sup>318</sup>
- [God will] destroy [the wicked] for their wickedness.<sup>319</sup>
- Let us worship and bow down; let us kneel before the Lord our Maker.<sup>320</sup>

<sup>314</sup> Law and Justice are always perverted under systems of human civil government, and the corruption and evils that follow from these systems is central to God's complaint of what men have done to His earth.

<sup>315</sup> As we acknowledge that human government is a judgment upon the sins of idolatry, covetousness, and sloth that puts it into place, we may also acknowledge how merciful God has been to spare us, too.

<sup>316</sup> Those who make "executive orders," legislative decrees, or who enforce these "laws" of men, are not God's people, but precisely His enemies who do violence to His earth on behalf of their human masters.

<sup>317</sup> If you took it from idolatrous statist who claim to be Christians, human governments only punish "bad guys" while the "good guys" have nothing to hide, yet Scripture shows it preying upon the righteous.

<sup>318</sup> Though the rulers of the world believe they are exempt from divine judgment as they devour other men, in the end, God turns around these very evils that they carry out against other men on their own heads.

<sup>319</sup> Since governments are particularly adept at doing evil, God uses them to judge the evil men who believe in them, but we should never think they are non-evil and will go unpunished for their "service" to God.

<sup>320</sup> Men of God praise the Lord alone as their King and Savior, and all those who chase after the human kings of the world are men who have forgotten their Maker and made for themselves other gods.

- We are the people of His pasture, the sheep under His care.<sup>321</sup>
- He is coming to judge the earth.<sup>322</sup>
- Hate evil, O you who love the Lord!<sup>323</sup>
- [The Lord] preserves the souls of His saints.<sup>324</sup>
- [The Lord] delivers [His saints] from the hands of the wicked.<sup>325</sup>
- Know that the Lord is God; it is He who made us, and we are His.<sup>326</sup>
- I will set no worthless thing before my eyes.<sup>327</sup>
- All day long my enemies taunt me; they ridicule and curse me.<sup>328</sup>

<sup>321</sup> Those who trust the Lord see Him as their Shepherd who providentially provides for those who seek His anarchist Kingdom, in contrast to ungodly men who seek the socialist benefits of false gods.

<sup>322</sup> Though men, by and large, trust in human governments to save them and believe they are "ordained" by God to maintain law and order, the very thing God comes to judge is this man-made instrument of plunder.

<sup>323</sup> Contrary to those who have made the Lord into one who tells us not to judge and not to harshly rebuke toward anything or anyone, there is strong Biblical support for hating the evil and abhorring their practices.

<sup>324</sup> Though we may trust our eternal souls to the Lord, we should also believe that He will preserve our spirit on earth as we endure the hardships that will initially come with turning from the Egyptian path.

<sup>325</sup> The salvation or deliverance spoken of in Scripture is rarely ever just some entirely spiritual or heavenly one, but is focused rather on God liberating men from their Egyptian political bondage on earth.

<sup>326</sup> Each man is made in the image of God and was designed to be a free soul under His Kingship, but men, forsaking the Lord as their King and going after other gods to serve them, have gone under the rule of men.

<sup>327</sup> Even Godly men can sometimes be tempted to fall into the worldliness around them, but they must resist it and keep their sights planted firmly on the mission of seeking God's anarchistic Kingdom.

<sup>328</sup> Those who preach the Gospel of God's anarchistic Kingdom are not friends of the world and its political systems, and should thus expect to be mocked by the idolatrous statist of the world as we rebuke them.

- The nations will fear the name of the Lord.<sup>329</sup>
- The Lord executes righteousness and justice for all the oppressed.<sup>330</sup>
- The Lord has established His throne in heaven, and His kingdom rules over all.<sup>331</sup>
- May sinners vanish from the earth and the wicked be no more.<sup>332</sup>
- Seek out the Lord and His strength.<sup>333</sup>
- Remember the wonders He has done.<sup>334</sup>
- [Remember] His marvels, and the judgments He has pronounced.<sup>335</sup>

<sup>329</sup> Though men today only know human rulers as their gods and preach the statist gospel of salvation through government, a day will come when men will know the Lord (Isa 45:23, Rom 14:11, Phil 2:9-11).

<sup>330</sup> The statist sinners of the world tell us that human government is indispensable for law and justice, yet God's promise is that He will deliver justice to His people against the State and its oppressive systems.

<sup>331</sup> The Lord's throne is established in heaven over free men who submit to His rule, and all earthly thrones—this is the very definition of worldly—are illegitimate usurpations of His rule.

<sup>332</sup> Though all men have sinned, are in need of a Savior, and must repent, Scripture often contrasts the wicked with the righteous, contrary to modern Christians who think we're all just an equally worthless lot.

<sup>333</sup> Seeking human rulers and their armies and police forces to "free" and "protect" you is the exact opposite of seeking out the Lord and His strength; it is trusting in false gods for salvation.

<sup>334</sup> God is to be remembered by recalling the disasters He has brought upon Egyptian pursuers in the past, which should keep men from the statist ideology that chariots and horsemen are needed for protection.

<sup>335</sup> When we think of our Lord, we should marvel at the judgments He brings upon the Egyptian-statist societies of the world, which is an act that simultaneously sets the captives free and undoes the yoke of bondage.

- Blessed are those who uphold justice, who practice righteousness at all times.<sup>336</sup>
- They mingled with the nations and adopted their customs.<sup>337</sup>
- They worshiped their idols which became a snare to them.<sup>338</sup>
- Save us, O Lord our God, and gather us from the nations.<sup>339</sup>
- He satisfies the thirsty and fills the hungry with good things.<sup>340</sup>
- Prisoners [sat] in affliction and chains because they rebelled against the words of God.<sup>341</sup>
- [Prisoners sat in chains because they] despised the counsel of the Most High.<sup>342</sup>

<sup>336</sup> Though the Lord has called us to seek the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, statist idolaters, many of whom claim to be Christians, outsource their personal responsibilities to human government.

<sup>337</sup> We were never supposed to integrate with statist and their man-made legal orders, but were instead to be set apart from them entirely — in the world, as a man on earth, but not of the world and its political systems.

<sup>338</sup> Those false Christians who fall into the trap of voting for presidents bring themselves into tax bondage for their sins and end up serving false gods for having prayed to them for freedom, order, and salvation.

<sup>339</sup> In stark contrast to the rare men of God who pray to the Lord to deliver us from the bondage of Egyptian political systems, statist pray to these very men for their alleged protection, prosperity, law, and order.

<sup>340</sup> To be a statist is precisely to believe that it is men, rather than the Lord our God, who fill the hungry, clothe the naked, house the homeless, protect the vulnerable, and save the people from their enemies.

<sup>341</sup> It is man's statist rebellion against God—that is, his belief that human rulers are necessary for protection—that brings men into bondage to the kingdoms of the world and their systems of taxation and violence.

<sup>342</sup> Men wind up in Egyptian captivity because they refused to hear or heed the words of the Lord, warning men that the sin of whoring themselves out to human governments will lead to their bondage.

- He humbled their hearts with hard labor.<sup>343</sup>
- They stumbled, and there was no one to help.<sup>344</sup>
- They cried out to the Lord in their trouble, and He saved them from their distress.<sup>345</sup>
- Fools, in their rebellious ways, and through their iniquities, suffered affliction.<sup>346</sup>
- He turns rivers into deserts, springs of water into thirsty ground.<sup>347</sup>
- [He turns] fruitful land into fields of salt, because of the wickedness of its dwellers.<sup>348</sup>
- He lifts the needy from affliction.<sup>349</sup>

---

<sup>343</sup> Should the political evils of men become so grievous and unceasing, God will give men over to the labor camps and firing squads of socialists to teach them again of their desperate need to turn back to the Lord.

<sup>344</sup> When men abandon God to trust in human rulers—the inevitable fruit of forsaking the Lord's kingship—they end up on their own, crying out to the Lord, who no longer cares, to save them from their kings.

<sup>345</sup> If men would ever stop begging the systems of government that only destroy them to be their salvation and would turn to the Lord instead as their only savior, then He stands ready to hear our plea and deliver us.

<sup>346</sup> People are destroyed for their lack of knowledge and lack of interest in divine counsel, and there is no knowledge more lacking than the idea that human governments and their armies and police forces can save men.

<sup>347</sup> We must believe that if we were to seek the Kingdom of God and stop seeking protection and benefits from the socialist kingdoms of the world, that God would providentially supply us with all of our needs.

<sup>348</sup> Men should never think that because they have seen abundance once that it will last forever, especially as they drift off into ever-greater statist practices in their land, which God punishes with famines and plagues.

<sup>349</sup> God has His eyes on both the state rulers of the world, to destroy them for their iniquities, and on the repentant anarchists who live under Egyptian-statist systems, to liberate them from political bondage.

- Wicked and deceitful mouths open against me.<sup>350</sup>
- [The wicked] speak against me with lying tongues.<sup>351</sup>
- They surround me with hateful words and attack me without cause.<sup>352</sup>
- They repay me evil for good, and hatred for my love.<sup>353</sup>
- [They] pursue the poor and needy and brokenhearted, even to their death.<sup>354</sup>
- I am an object of scorn to my accusers; when they see me they shake their head.<sup>355</sup>
- He stands beside the needy, ready to save them from those who condemn them.<sup>356</sup>

<sup>350</sup> It is always necessary for human rulers to paint God's Kingdom seekers—their only effective enemies—as "anarchists" and "terrorists," and so they drum up the narrative and get others to join in on it.

<sup>351</sup> Agents of the State, such as police officers, will lie to judges or "district attorneys" to get God's children trapped into their legal system and repeatedly plunder and harass them for years on end.

<sup>352</sup> Statists have no real argument against the anarchistic Gospel of the Kingdom of God, which they inherently reject, and so turn to mocking and scorning those who preach it to make us look bad in front of others.

<sup>353</sup> At times it will seem almost futile to evangelize others to the call to seek the Kingdom of God, for even though we do it because we care about their liberty, they only repay us with hate and endless objections.

<sup>354</sup> Agents of the State not only plunder God's children with man-made laws, taxes, and many other legal decrees and schemes, but they will also cage us or kill us if their wicked hearts desire.

<sup>355</sup> We should rejoice that statists come out against us for preaching the anarchistic Gospel of God's Kingdom, as it only shows that they hate us for not being friends with the world and its statist systems like them.

<sup>356</sup> Though the rulers of the world, and the evil one who animates the spirit of these men, seek to destroy us, they will however have to contest with God, who has purposed it to bring an end to all these wicked men.

- [The Lord] will crush kings in the day of His wrath.<sup>357</sup>
- [The Lord] will crush the leaders far and wide.<sup>358</sup>
- He provides food for those who fear Him.<sup>359</sup>
- The works of His hands are truth and justice.<sup>360</sup>
- All His precepts are trustworthy.<sup>361</sup>
- The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.<sup>362</sup>
- All who follow His precepts gain rich understanding.<sup>363</sup>
- Blessed is the man who fears the Lord.<sup>364</sup>

---

<sup>357</sup> Though statist idolaters apologize for the existence of human kings, who they believe serve a "subordinate" role under Jesus Christ, all of Scripture shows God's judgment coming down on these very men.

<sup>358</sup> God's judgment is not one of Him rebuking all those petty thieves who shoplifted candy bars as children, but is the heavy hand of divine justice coming down on the heads of worldly rulers who plunder humanity.

<sup>359</sup> Unlike statist sinners, who believe they would have nothing without raising up socialist systems of law, justice, defense, and welfare, God-fearing men trust the Lord's provision in an anarchist society.

<sup>360</sup> Though statist act like victims in their bondage, say they don't deserve it, and refuse to repent even under judgment, all the evils that have come upon a statist people are but a just recompense for the sins of statism.

<sup>361</sup> When men trust in States to "protect and serve" them, rather than trust in the Lord's anarchist order, they show that they think God's instruction is untrustworthy and that His commands are unreliable.

<sup>362</sup> Men are foolish statist today who can't see that God has His own decentralized, anarchistic Kingdom that is not of this world because they haven't feared God alone and humbled themselves enough to learn it.

<sup>363</sup> It is not for nothing that God has left us His word, for in it we find all of the divine wisdom needed to turn back our bondage and abolish statism by repenting and seeking God's anarchist Kingdom order.

<sup>364</sup> Unlike statist, who fear God's anarchy and institute human governments to supposedly provide protection and freedom, God-fearing men are anarchists who trust the Lord alone to provide for their needs.

- [Blessed is the man] who greatly delights in His commandments.<sup>365</sup>
- The generation of the upright will be blessed.<sup>366</sup>
- Trust in the Lord! He is their help and shield.<sup>367</sup>
- The Lord is mindful of us; He will bless us.<sup>368</sup>
- In my anxiety I cried out to you, "These people are all liars!"<sup>369</sup>
- The Lord is on my side; I will not be afraid. What can man do to me?<sup>370</sup>
- It is better to take refuge in the Lord than to trust in man.<sup>371</sup>
- It is better to take refuge in the Lord than to trust in princes.<sup>372</sup>

---

<sup>365</sup> When men fear the Lord, such that they know the judgment He will bring upon all those who trust in the governments of men to serve them, they will have learned how to avoid the disasters inherent to statism.

<sup>366</sup> We write about the Kingdom of God in hopes that our posterity will take up its cause, knowing that all the men on earth today have only ever known the statist ways of the world and show little sign of repenting.

<sup>367</sup> The cry of the statist—trust in presidents and congressmen, they are your help and shield and protectors in times of danger—is directly opposed to the true faith that men are to have in the Lord.

<sup>368</sup> When men turn to human rulers to protect, liberate, and save them, they show—like the Israelites' lust for a king under Samuel—that they think they Lord has forgotten them and that they may well forget Him.

<sup>369</sup> It will always be frustrating dealing with the people of the world—that is, the statist of these man-made political societies—as they fight against the Lord, yet we find peace in knowing the Lord and His ways.

<sup>370</sup> Most men, at the first sign of human enemies, confide in human governments to protect them, but men of God remain steadfast in the Lord and fear Him only, no matter the dangers they face.

<sup>371</sup> To seek protection, law, and justice in human government is the characteristic way that people trust in "men," which refers not to any men but to the rulers of the world and their Egyptian-statist political systems.

<sup>372</sup> If men were acquainted with the most basic scriptures and took them seriously, they could never be statist who put their trust in princes and kings and would know this is the very way men revolt against God.

- All the nations surrounded me, but in the name of the Lord I cut them off.<sup>373</sup>
- The Lord is my strength and my song, and He has become my salvation.<sup>374</sup>
- Blessed are those whose way is blameless.<sup>375</sup>
- [Blessed are those] who walk in the Law of the Lord.<sup>376</sup>
- Do not let me stray from Your commandments.<sup>377</sup>
- Teach me Your statutes.<sup>378</sup>
- I will meditate on Your precepts and regard Your ways.<sup>379</sup>
- I will delight in Your statutes, I will not forget Your word.<sup>380</sup>

<sup>373</sup> Though statisticians reason that being surrounded by other States necessitates instituting one of their own, godly men trust the Lord to deal with their enemies and never think they must become like the world.

<sup>374</sup> It is not without religious significance that men salute flags and sing "national anthems" to States, for, in doing so, they are praising these men as their saviors, who they believe have given them life and liberty.

<sup>375</sup> At times men may be tempted by the seeming success of statisticians to join them in their evildoing and plunder, thinking our causal reality benefits wickedness, yet the Lord calls us to stay pure for our blessings.

<sup>376</sup> To walk in the Law of the Lord requires that men refuse to set up human rulers, who are but the false gods of false kingdoms who have set themselves up against God and His natural order.

<sup>377</sup> If men turned to the Lord's counsel regularly and kept their hearts fixed on His Law, they would never enter voting booths and set up false gods to rule over them, knowing that this is against His commands.

<sup>378</sup> If men had sought the ways of the Lord, they would never set up human civil governments, knowing they are all arbitrary, authoritarian law systems based on the statutory edicts and legal decrees of men.

<sup>379</sup> Far from being men who meditate on God's Law and seek to know His ways, statisticians are men whose ideology—their sinful justification for human rulers—is characteristic of worldly political philosophy.

<sup>380</sup> Men forget the law-word of the Lord—namely His command against having other gods before the Lord their God—when they set up systems of human government that put men into positions of power.

- Open my eyes that I may see wondrous things from Your law.<sup>381</sup>
- I am a stranger on the earth.<sup>382</sup>
- Though rulers sit and slander me, Your servant meditates on Your statutes.<sup>383</sup>
- Remove me from the path of deceit and graciously grant me Your law.<sup>384</sup>
- Teach me, O Lord, the way of Your statutes, and I will keep them to the end.<sup>385</sup>
- Give me understanding that I may obey Your law, and follow it with all my heart.<sup>386</sup>
- Turn my eyes away from worthless things; revive me with Your word.<sup>387</sup>

---

<sup>381</sup> Statists never asked God to open their eyes, and this is why they can't see that the tax-based, authoritarian kingdoms of man are antagonistic to the government of God, run by ministers who don't exercise authority.

<sup>382</sup> Seeking to serve God and further His Kingdom is a lonely and isolating journey, for we are surrounded by statists—many who call themselves Christians—whose hearts are set on human governments.

<sup>383</sup> Even if the rulers of worldly institutions should directly mock, scorn or persecute us, we shall not be swayed out of focusing on the pressing need to seek God's Kingdom to the abolition of man's political systems.

<sup>384</sup> The ideology of statism is a satanic deception that works to lead men astray down the political path of the world, and men out to pray God removes it from their minds and restores their hearts back to His ways.

<sup>385</sup> Men are not keeping the statutes of the Lord when they chase after the man-made legal systems of the world, which is the very way that men reveal themselves to be rebels who have entirely turned from God's Law.

<sup>386</sup> Those who have not been shown the anti-statist ways of the Lord should pray today that He will reveal it to them, because they are needlessly living in darkness to God's Law.

<sup>387</sup> Men are idolizing the rulers of the world and seeking salvation through their false kingdoms because they have never asked God to teach them His ways, set their sights straight, and turn their eyes from evil.

- Never take Your word of truth from my mouth.<sup>388</sup>
- I will always obey Your law, forever and ever.<sup>389</sup>
- I will walk in freedom, for I have sought Your precepts.<sup>390</sup>
- I will speak of Your testimonies before kings, and I will not be ashamed.<sup>391</sup>
- The arrogant utterly deride me, but I do not turn from Your law.<sup>392</sup>
- Rage has taken hold of me because of the wicked who reject Your law.<sup>393</sup>
- I considered my ways and turned my steps to Your testimonies.<sup>394</sup>

<sup>388</sup> When men do not have the wisdom of the Lord on their minds, they inevitably buy into the false ideas of the world, which teaches that human rulers are necessary to justice, law, and social order in general.

<sup>389</sup> Statists are people who have effectively told God that they will never obey His Law or keep His commandments, and that they prefer instead to live under the arbitrary edicts and legal decrees of man's governments.

<sup>390</sup> God's word is not just arbitrary orders from a God seeking blind obedience, but a freedom manual of anarchist political science that keeps those who obey His commands out of the bondage of Egypt.

<sup>391</sup> God's prophets always preached to the rulers in the highest offices of human governments, so how much less anxious should we be to rebuke Pharaoh's princes and police officers for walking on the sinful path?

<sup>392</sup> Though we are regularly mocked by the millions of idolatrous statists who claim to be Christians, we shall not be moved from sticking to what God has taught us: that His Kingdom is not of this world.

<sup>393</sup> It is telling that few professing Christians feel righteous indignation in a world filled with statists, both in government and the population, whose political ideas prove them to be men who hate God and His Law.

<sup>394</sup> Humble servants of the Lord reflect on their ideas and deeds, acknowledge their errors, and change their ways, but statists refuse to admit that they haven't known the Lord and hold to the politics of Egypt.

- Though the ropes of the wicked bind me, I do not forget Your law.<sup>395</sup>
- The arrogant smear me with lies, but with my whole heart I keep your precepts.<sup>396</sup>
- Their hearts are callous and insensitive, but I delight in Your law.<sup>397</sup>
- It was good for me to be afflicted, that I might learn Your statutes.<sup>398</sup>
- The law from Your mouth is better to me than thousands of gold and silver.<sup>399</sup>
- May the arrogant be put to shame for subverting me with a lie.<sup>400</sup>
- The arrogant have dug pits for me in violation of Your law.<sup>401</sup>

---

<sup>395</sup> We see the standard of devotion to God set in the Biblical authors' unmoved faith despite finding themselves in the lion's dens and dungeons of rulers, which might lead weak men to renounce the Lord as their King.

<sup>396</sup> Taking on the endless slew of reprobate statists who claim to be Christians is almost enough to discourage a man from the ideological and spiritual battle for truth, yet we're too radical for the Lord to be shaken.

<sup>397</sup> Just as God hardened Pharaoh's heart so that he couldn't avoid meeting the fate he deserved for his own evils, so God has given statists over to a reprobate mind to remain lost in the world destroyed in all their idolatry.

<sup>398</sup> Though men would ideally listen to God the first time, it is often only under harsh judgment that men learn the hard way to return to the Lord, and even then they often fail to be corrected in their Babylonian captivity.

<sup>399</sup> God's people value poverty, albeit with the God-given gift of a vision of the divine anarchist society, to all the riches in the world with utter blindness, and must even choose it if the other option is to sell out.

<sup>400</sup> The evil men of the world have nothing on the righteous men who are repenting of the sins of statism that led to our bondage and seeking God's Kingdom, so they turn to branding us as "terrorists" or "heretics."

<sup>401</sup> Human rulers, who can never keep God's Law so long as they rule over men, seek to ruin the men of God who are after another Kingdom than the ungodly ones that they work to further in their wickedness.

- They almost wiped me from the earth, but I have not forsaken Your precepts.<sup>402</sup>
- If Your law had not been my delight, then I would have perished in my affliction.<sup>403</sup>
- The wicked wait to destroy me, but I will ponder Your testimonies.<sup>404</sup>
- Your commandments make me wiser than my enemies.<sup>405</sup>
- I have more insight than all my teachers, for Your testimonies are my meditation.<sup>406</sup>
- I discern more than the elders, for I obey Your precepts.<sup>407</sup>
- I have kept my feet from every evil path.<sup>408</sup>

<sup>402</sup> Though men may seek to completely destroy us and get us to forsake the Lord our God, such trials and tribulations only serve to harden us in our service and devotion to Him and prove that we're on the right path.

<sup>403</sup> The only way we are going to survive state persecution in the future will be to stay in God's beautiful law and word despite the numerous evils that prevail around us and will only continue to proliferate.

<sup>404</sup> We may sometimes find ourselves in the curious position of being preyed upon by evil statist who serve the government of the devil, while simultaneously finding pure joy in meditating on the things of God.

<sup>405</sup> Though the statist may have power and command the political machinery of the world, yet they are exceptionally lost when it comes to knowing the ways of the Lord, which is something we have on them.

<sup>406</sup> Though credentials tend to win the day in our world of appeals to authority, the lay Christian Anarchist knows the Lord better than any seminary hack, false pastor, or regime theologian.

<sup>407</sup> Our parents and grandparents bought into the statist ways and ideas of the world and left us nothing but lies as their teachings, yet by knowing God and reading His word, we instantly know more than them.

<sup>408</sup> Those who serve systems of human government cannot say that they have kept their feet from every evil path; they have walked decidedly on it, choosing to further the devil's government instead of God's Kingdom.

- I hate every false way.<sup>409</sup>
- Your word is a lamp to my feet and a light to my path.<sup>410</sup>
- The wicked have set a snare for me, but I have not strayed from Your precepts.<sup>411</sup>
- The double-minded I despise, but Your law I love.<sup>412</sup>
- You are my hiding place and my shield; I put my hope in Your word.<sup>413</sup>
- Depart from me, you evildoers, that I may obey the commandments of my God.<sup>414</sup>
- All the wicked on earth You discard like dross.<sup>415</sup>

<sup>409</sup> Worldly men are shocked and confused when they meet one of God's people, for we rebuke the very things of the world—namely, the systems of human government—that they love and idolize.

<sup>410</sup> Most men are lost in both the statist ideology of the world and the political practices that follow from this philosophy, because they have not allowed the Lord to show them the way to His anarchist Kingdom order.

<sup>411</sup> The devil's governments will not only seek to kidnap men and throw them in cages, but will also tempt men to sin and depart from what is right by offering them incomes to become one of these officers of slavery.

<sup>412</sup> The double-minded man, who is unstable in all his ways, are those types of people who try to mix God's Kingdom into the kingdoms of men—who claim to be servants of the Lord while remaining statist.

<sup>413</sup> The word of God was never just for us to play theology in so-called churches or seminaries, but to build men up in the Abolitionist ideology needed to seek the Kingdom of God against its many statist enemies.

<sup>414</sup> The only way to abolish the authoritarian legal systems of men is to seek the literal Kingdom of God as a real, alternative law-order to the kingdoms of the world, which were raised up in the void of our sloth.

<sup>415</sup> Though many men never distinguish between good and evil, "the wicked" in the Bible refers not just to some generic sinners, but to the men who rule the world and work iniquity through its political systems.

- I stand in fear of Your judgments.<sup>416</sup>
- Do not leave me to my oppressors.<sup>417</sup>
- Do not let the arrogant oppress me.<sup>418</sup>
- It is time for the Lord to act, for they have broken Your law.<sup>419</sup>
- I love Your commandments more than gold.<sup>420</sup>
- The unfolding of Your words gives light; it informs the simple.<sup>421</sup>
- Order my steps in Your word.<sup>422</sup>
- Let not sin rule over me.<sup>423</sup>

---

<sup>416</sup> Men would not pursue the statist ways of the world if they knew the very real judgment—Egyptian bondage, Babylonian exile, or captivity to human rulers otherwise—that awaits all those who walk down this road.

<sup>417</sup> If there is anything we should be crying out to God to do for us today, at a time when most men show no signs of repenting, it is that He does not leave us to suffer under the boot of statist system-makers forever.

<sup>418</sup> The arrogant, proud, and haughty men in the Bible are never just some egotistical individuals who are full of themselves, but precisely the rulers of the world who think they cannot be stopped in their wicked tracks.

<sup>419</sup> The governments of the world are founded and furthered in violations of God's Law, and have so far departed from it today that we are in desperate need of divine intervention against these men.

<sup>420</sup> The people of the world have loved worldly luxuries and comforts like sports cars, recreational vehicles, and houses more than God, and have accepted their statist slavery in exchange for them.

<sup>421</sup> Simpleminded men go along with all the standard and popular teachings of the world—namely, its statist political philosophy—that just the smallest dose of God's word would cleanse them from.

<sup>422</sup> God's word is not just some mythical storybook or religio-spiritual text about the path to heaven, but a civics textbook of anarchist political science that leads those men to liberty who are willing to heed its lessons.

<sup>423</sup> As we begin to seek the Kingdom of God and His righteousness with the divine knowledge needed to further this movement, let us cry out to the Lord to keep us pure and holy as we embark upon this great work.

- Redeem me from the oppression of man.<sup>424</sup>
- My eyes shed streams of tears because Your law is not obeyed.<sup>425</sup>
- My zeal has consumed me because my foes forget Your words.<sup>426</sup>
- I am lowly and despised, but I do not forget Your precepts.<sup>427</sup>
- Trouble and distress have found me, but Your commandments are my delight.<sup>428</sup>
- In Your word I have put my hope.<sup>429</sup>
- Those who follow after wickedness draw near; they are far from Your law.<sup>430</sup>
- Look upon my affliction and rescue me.<sup>431</sup>

---

<sup>424</sup> Christians today are far from Biblical prayers for God to save us from statist tyrants on earth, because they not only make the Lord's salvation into a purely heavenly idea, but see human rulers as their earthly saviors.

<sup>425</sup> We have to be suspicious of those who don't weep at the sight of the statist perversion of justice nor recognize statism as a corruption of God's anarchist law order, because this is God's very lament against mankind.

<sup>426</sup> May God forgive us when our righteous indignation flares up as we engage the seemingly infinite statist who reject the godly anarchist society, as we must only feel as He does to deal with these reprobates.

<sup>427</sup> That the foolish statist masses are deaf to our calls to repent of their idolatry and seek the Kingdom of God only goes to show that we are the tiny minority seeking to enter the narrow gate that few will find.

<sup>428</sup> What sweeter thing for the soul of a man than to meditate on the ways of the Lord when we are discouraged at the corrupt, political ways of the world and the stone-hearted men who never want to learn from us?

<sup>429</sup> Though worldly men turn to statist philosophers for their political ideas, men of God take their worldview exclusively from the Bible—an anarchist manifesto that shows men the way out of the bondage of Egypt.

<sup>430</sup> The only sense in which state rulers "serve" God is by bringing evil upon a society of statist who deserve to be judged for their sins inherent to raising up rulers, but it is never possible for them to "keep God's Law."

<sup>431</sup> Though idolaters think Egypt is a free country whose soldiers fought for it, godly men know that all human governments are proof that men are living in captivity, and we pray to God to deliver us from their rule.

- Salvation is far from the wicked because they do not seek Your statutes.<sup>432</sup>
- Many persecute and trouble me, yet I have not swerved from your laws.<sup>433</sup>
- Rulers persecute me without cause, but my heart fears only Your word.<sup>434</sup>
- Abundant peace belongs to those who love Your instruction.<sup>435</sup>
- Deliver my soul, O Lord, from lying lips and a deceitful tongue.<sup>436</sup>
- Too long have I dwelt among those who hate peace.<sup>437</sup>
- I am in favor of peace; but when I speak, they want war.<sup>438</sup>

---

<sup>432</sup> Though Christians today tell themselves that they are "saved" and think they do not need to repent, really they are living as captives in Egypt, and God isn't saving them because they don't seek His Kingdom.

<sup>433</sup> The goal of any gang of human rulers is to attempt to break men of their faith in, and allegiance to, God's Kingdom and get them to become Romans who seek salvation in governments and partake in their sins.

<sup>434</sup> The hardest test a man of God could ever face—this is a point where he believes the word of God or not—is to be persecuted or imprisoned by the evil statist, but to maintain his faith that the Lord is still with him.

<sup>435</sup> Those who buy into the false gospels of statist, i.e., the promises made by politicians of peace, prosperity, or law and order under their rule, will never find these things, for salvation rests only in the Lord our God.

<sup>436</sup> The satanic agents of the State, such as prosecutors, police officers, or judges, will use lies and deceit to incarcerate God's children, and they are the very wicked predators who we need divine protection from.

<sup>437</sup> Any statist society is filled with violent men who hate God and praise wicked men, leaving God's children as lone prophets in a land of idolaters who hate true peace and liberty and persecute those who advocate it.

<sup>438</sup> Though we advocate for a peaceful, anarchist society under God's rule, the statist of the world, who serve the authoritarian governments of men, come out against us, realizing our kingdom models are at enmity.

- My help comes from the Lord, the Maker of heaven and earth.<sup>439</sup>
- The Lord is your keeper.<sup>440</sup>
- The Lord will guard you from all evil; He will preserve your soul.<sup>441</sup>
- Our eyes are on the Lord our God.<sup>442</sup>
- Have mercy on us, O Lord...for we have endured much contempt.<sup>443</sup>
- We have endured much scorn from the arrogant, much contempt from the proud.<sup>444</sup>
- If the Lord had not been on our side when men attacked us...they would have swallowed us alive.<sup>445</sup>
- The wicked will not rule the land of the godly.<sup>446</sup>

<sup>439</sup> The core claims of the worldly philosophy of statism—that society requires human rulers to function—goes against the faith in God to protect and service us, proclaiming instead that our help is in men.

<sup>440</sup> As we endure the trials and tribulations that will come to us as we seek the Kingdom of God against the kingdoms of man, may we always remember this is the Lord's work and that our labor is not in vain.

<sup>441</sup> The political ideology of statism, which says that human rulers are necessary for protection, defense, or freedom, is entirely out of line with the psalmists' trust in the Lord alone to secure and liberate them.

<sup>442</sup> Our eyes are on the Lord only when we are seeking His Kingdom to the exclusion of man's kingdoms, and they are far from Him when they are on the politics of worldly kingdoms and their politicians.

<sup>443</sup> Those who know the ways of the Lord will always be objects of contempt in a statist society, especially among fake Christian who don't want to be told that their statist politics makes them false converts.

<sup>444</sup> To believe in human government is exactly representative of what it means to be friends with the world, so naturally statistes come out against us Christian Anarchists, who preach the true Gospel of God's Kingdom.

<sup>445</sup> Those who fantasize shooting their way out of our Egyptian captivity do not realize that liberation from the bondage of statism — this is the salvation of the Lord — is a matter of repentance and divine deliverance.

<sup>446</sup> Any people who can be found living under systems of human rule have been ungodly, because only ungodly men can be ruled; men who make the Lord their King have no other gods or rulers than the Lord their God.

- Those who turn to crooked ways the Lord will banish with the evildoers.<sup>447</sup>
- Restore our captives, O Lord.<sup>448</sup>
- Unless the Lord builds the house, its builders labor in vain.<sup>449</sup>
- Unless the Lord protects the city, its watchmen stand guard in vain.<sup>450</sup>
- Many times they have persecuted me from my youth, but they have not prevailed against me.<sup>451</sup>
- The Lord is righteous; He has cut me from the cords of the wicked.<sup>452</sup>
- My heart is not proud, O Lord, my eyes are not haughty.<sup>453</sup>

<sup>447</sup> If you refuse to keep God's commands and seek His Kingdom—this is the Divine Law all men need to discover—then God will turn you over to violent hands of plunderous statist who will enslave you for your sin.

<sup>448</sup> Political bondage is divine judgment for the sin of making men your gods and saviors, and all those living as captives to human government need to make the Lord their God again and cry out to Him for salvation.

<sup>449</sup> The inherently ungodly political systems of man cannot stand forever, for they are institutions that are raised up in sin and rebellion against God and built and furthered on violence and iniquity.

<sup>450</sup> We are not in need of police, militaries, or militias to keep us safe and free from our enemies, but only for the Lord our God to have His hand on a people who are serious about living freely under His rule.

<sup>451</sup> Without boasting too much, we may humbly count the times that God has already saved us from the wicked rulers of the world coming down on us, who since our youth have wanted us in their detention camps.

<sup>452</sup> What God would do for men, if only they would ever trust in Him and seek His Kingdom at the exclusion of the kingdoms of the world, is the same thing He did for Israel in Egypt: liberate men from political slavery.

<sup>453</sup> Statists are proud because they believe they're saving themselves through political power and legislative decree, but God's people are humble, lowly, and hardworking, knowing salvation is the Lord's work.

- I do not aspire to great things or matters too lofty to me.<sup>454</sup>
- He sent signs and wonders...against Pharaoh and all his servants.<sup>455</sup>
- He struck down many nations and slaughtered mighty kings.<sup>456</sup>
- He divided the Red Sea in two and led Israel through the midst.<sup>457</sup>
- [He] swept Pharaoh and his army into the Red Sea.<sup>458</sup>
- He struck down great kings and slaughtered mighty kings.<sup>459</sup>
- He remembered us in our low estate and freed us from our enemies.<sup>460</sup>
- The Lord is on high, He attends to the lowly; but the proud He knows from afar.<sup>461</sup>

<sup>454</sup> Those who seek riches and power in our Babylonian society are compromised individuals who go astray from God, whose Spirit and wisdom is found among the lowly of society who seek His Kingdom.

<sup>455</sup> Most men remain in political bondage because they don't trust that God would physically rebuke our statist captors if they tried to keep us as their slaves as we began to repent of our idolatry and leave Egypt.

<sup>456</sup> The highly underemphasized work of the Lord, who is made into nothing more than a soul-saver today, is slaughtering kings and their armies and officers—the very people who men trust in to save them.

<sup>457</sup> There should always be a part of a man that trusts in miracles—the parting of seas to escape statist bondage on dry land—for those who are ready to seek God's Kingdom, so that they have the faith needed to do so.

<sup>458</sup> The idea that the Lord saves our soul, but earthly protection requires human governments, is clearly a false dichotomy, given the many Biblical examples of God crushing statist as an act of divine liberation.

<sup>459</sup> It is no wonder that false converts fight against the anarchist nature of God's Kingdom: they realize that God slaughters the kings and presidents, who are their gods, and this offends their idolatrous sensibilities.

<sup>460</sup> When men know the Lord and the work He has done on Pharaohs and Egypts before, there is no bottom of a statist society from which a people cannot be rescued, no tyranny so great that God cannot overturn.

<sup>461</sup> Though human rulers sometimes imagine they have God's protection and will as they rule over other men, it is, in fact, the men who they rule over—the lowly men in bondage to human rulers—that God cares for.

- O God, if only You would destroy the wicked!<sup>462</sup>
- Rescue me, O Lord, from evil men. Protect me from men of violence.<sup>463</sup>
- [They] devise evil in their hearts and stir up war all day long.<sup>464</sup>
- Guard me, O Lord, from the hands of the wicked.<sup>465</sup>
- Keep me safe from men of violence who scheme to make me stumble.<sup>466</sup>
- The proud hide a snare for me; the cords of their net are spread along the path.<sup>467</sup>
- Grant not, O Lord, the desires of the wicked.<sup>468</sup>

<sup>462</sup> Worldly men imagine they will take up arms in a violent revolution against their captors, but God's people know human rulers are but a judgment for sin and that repentance is the only way out of Egypt.

<sup>463</sup> The "men of violence" who we need God to save us from were never just some street thugs or small-time criminals, but the organized gangsters who call themselves "the government" and make their violence into "law."

<sup>464</sup> Although robbery and violence is inherent to human government, it is not just that the state rulers do violence as a matter of their operations, but that wicked works are what give these evil men their fill.

<sup>465</sup> Though modern Christians see salvation as an evacuation to heaven when they die, the psalmists' idea of God's saving power was always for God to remove the wicked from among us on earth and soon.

<sup>466</sup> State rulers exist not only to plunder the general population with their systems of legalized robbery, but they also prey upon specific individuals and seek to entrap them and cause them to incriminate themselves.

<sup>467</sup> "The proud" men of the Bible were never just men who had an inflated sense of self, but are the statist spoliators of the earth, who set up political plunder systems to rob the masses and prey on God's children.

<sup>468</sup> The evil rulers of the world scheme against the people of the earth who they see as their slaves, and we ought to pray to God they cannot succeed in their wicked schemes, considering they plan to exterminate us.

- Do not promote their evil plans, [O Lord].<sup>469</sup>
- May calamity hunt down the man of violence.<sup>470</sup>
- Keep me from the snares they have laid for me, and from the lures of evildoers.<sup>471</sup>
- Let the wicked fall into their own nets, while I pass by in safety.<sup>472</sup>
- Rescue me from my pursuers, for they are too strong for me.<sup>473</sup>
- The enemy has pursued my soul, crushing my life to the ground.<sup>474</sup>
- Teach me the way I should walk.<sup>475</sup>
- Cut off my enemies. Destroy all who afflict me, for I am Your servant.<sup>476</sup>

---

<sup>469</sup> As much as the state rulers of the world scheme against us, God remains sovereign and can thwart their operations at any time and turn around the wicked deeds they have planned for us upon their heads.

<sup>470</sup> All those who live by the sword die by the sword, and when men enforce the violent legal decrees of men, they may find themselves on the receiving-end of the violence that they proudly dealt-out to us.

<sup>471</sup> The "lawmakers" and "law enforcers" of worldly governments are not men who just passively write laws or reports, but men who actively conspire against, prey upon, stalk, and sabotage men as part of their jobs.

<sup>472</sup> Though the rulers of the world set up endless traps for the people of God to fall into, we may pray that God will cause them to fall into the traps that they intend for us, so that we can seek God's Kingdom freely.

<sup>473</sup> Every man who fantasizes armed revolution against a ruling elite must eventually realize that the statist captivity is due to sin, that the solution is repentance, and that what he needs is the salvation of the Lord.

<sup>474</sup> The evil people who operate systems of human government not only seek to plunder men for their own gain, but to kill the soul of the man too and cause him great distress—to break both our bones and our spirit.

<sup>475</sup> If men actually sought the Lord to mark their steps for them, they would never enter voting booths or pursue employment within human government, seeing that such actions make them complicit in evil.

<sup>476</sup> We will get divinely liberated from our Babylonian captivity only when we repent of statism and seek the Kingdom of God, for otherwise we only deserve to be in bondage to human government.

- Blessed be the Lord, my Rock, who trains my hands for war, my fingers for battle.<sup>477</sup>
- Blessed are the people whose God is the Lord.<sup>478</sup>
- [God's] kingdom is an everlasting kingdom.<sup>479</sup>
- [God's] dominion endures through all generations.<sup>480</sup>
- Put not your trust in princes, in mortal man, who cannot save.<sup>481</sup>
- [God] takes no pleasure in the strength of a horse or in human might.<sup>482</sup>
- The Lord is pleased with those who fear Him.<sup>483</sup>

---

<sup>477</sup> Though statist are always looking to appropriate the handful of verses they can try to spin in defense of their wicked ideology, God never commands men to set up a State, much less to serve one in war.

<sup>478</sup> The only people whose God is the Lord are repentant men living in an anarchist society and have the Lord as their only King and Savior; statist are unrepentant sinners whose gods are men and are cursed with slavery.

<sup>479</sup> Though statist idolaters believe their powerful political systems can never be brought to the ground, only the Kingdom of God is everlasting and every man-made kingdom is scheduled for divine destruction.

<sup>480</sup> Though men believe that their human domination systems can never be stopped, their fate, as kingdoms raised up against God's, is to be consumed and replaced by God's everlasting Kingdom (Daniel 2:44).

<sup>481</sup> If men should learn one thing from the Bible, it is that man's great sin was substituting human rulers for God and that the sin of statism explains their bondage, yet this is completely lost on professing Christians today.

<sup>482</sup> Statist trust in presidents, congressmen, armies, and police—the horses and chariots and of scripture—to save them from their enemies, all while these things are anathema in the eyes of the Lord.

<sup>483</sup> Though sinners tell us we could not do without human governments to protect us, God-fearing men are anarchists who trust the Lord alone to provide for us, knowing that statism only brings judgment upon a people.

- He makes peace at your borders; He fills you with the finest wheat.<sup>484</sup>

---

<sup>484</sup> The irony that statisticians haven't figured out yet is that the only way to be safe and free is to trust in the Lord to secure us, rather than the State, which only makes one's fears of chaos, insecurity, and disorder a reality.

Proverbs

- Gain wisdom and discipline.<sup>485</sup>
- Comprehend words of insight.<sup>486</sup>
- Receive instruction in wise living and in righteousness, justice, and equity.<sup>487</sup>
- Impart prudence to the simple and knowledge and discretion.<sup>488</sup>
- The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge.<sup>489</sup>
- Fools despise wisdom and discipline.<sup>490</sup>
- If sinners entice you, do not yield to them.<sup>491</sup>

<sup>485</sup> We ought to actively seek the will of God through His word and conform our lives strictly around it, so that we do not fall into the vain (statist) philosophies of men or their wicked political practices.

<sup>486</sup> We ought to seek to understand the laws and nature of God, meditate on His word, and know what He is trying to tell us, lest we believe in the lies of men and never find our way out of the Egyptian slave society.

<sup>487</sup> We must all learn the ethical standards of God as we work to advance His Kingdom, for Justice and Law are weightier matters that are not to be outsourced to human government, who only ever pervert these things.

<sup>488</sup> We should be raising up other men on the anarchist word of God and spreading the teachings of this freedom manual to others, so that they can become co-laborers with us in seeking His Kingdom order.

<sup>489</sup> Unless men fear the Lord and understand the judgment He brings upon disobedient statist who walk in the political ways of the world, they will not have the wisdom needed to avoid social calamity.

<sup>490</sup> It is difficult attempting to teach statist of their errors and their sins, because they are expressly men who seek the ways of the world, rather than the word and voice of the Lord calling them out of Egypt.

<sup>491</sup> Sinners tempt men with benefits to forget God and join them in doing evil, speaking of the sign-on bonuses, steady incomes, health insurance, and retirements that await those who serve Pharaoh's government.

- Sinners say, “We will find all manner of precious goods, we will fill our houses with plunder.”<sup>492</sup>
- Do not walk the road with these sinners or set foot upon their path.<sup>493</sup>
- Their feet run to evil, and they are swift to shed blood.<sup>494</sup>
- How long, O simple ones, will you love your simple ways?<sup>495</sup>
- How long will scoffers delight in their scorn?<sup>496</sup>
- How long will fools hate knowledge?<sup>497</sup>
- They hated knowledge and chose not to fear the Lord.<sup>498</sup>
- They accepted none of my counsel; they despised all my reproof.<sup>499</sup>

<sup>492</sup> Though anyone who would serve as one of Pharaoh's soldiers or police officers is already corrupt, men are further tempted to give into evil because Egypt entices them with a share in the tax plunder to join them.

<sup>493</sup> Godly men are not to walk on the wicked path of the world, such as by becoming politicians, police officers, soldiers, judges, tax collectors, or political plunderers otherwise, who are all sinners on the evil statist road.

<sup>494</sup> The state rulers of the world are always looking for men and property to pounce on, and they will not hesitate to murder those who resist their orders or fail to obey one of their convoluted commands.

<sup>495</sup> The earth is filled with simpleminded statists who never questioned the prevailing ideas of the world that they assumed to be right for this reason, and so have gone into bondage for their lack of knowledge.

<sup>496</sup> Those who know God's word are mocked by the statists of the world who don't know it and who thus never realize the errors—namely, their idolatry for human rulers—that led them to become captives of men.

<sup>497</sup> Though Christian Abolitionists evangelize men in God's anarchist ways, these reprobate statist idolaters—many who call themselves Christians—never listen and refuse to wise-up and confess their evils.

<sup>498</sup> All the grand schemes of statists, such as erecting, planning, and controlling whole artificial socialist orders through political violence, are the inventions of men who hate God and trust in their own wisdom.

<sup>499</sup> God has been telling and showing men for thousands of years, through His direct word and the harsh judgment of statist bondage, that their statism is foolish and leads to disaster, but they have refused to learn.

- They eat the fruit of their own way, and are filled with their own devices.<sup>500</sup>
- Whoever listens to me will dwell in safety, secure from the fear of evil.<sup>501</sup>
- Hide my commandments within you.<sup>502</sup>
- Incline your ear to wisdom and direct your heart to understanding.<sup>503</sup>
- Lift your voice to understanding, and search it out like hidden treasure.<sup>504</sup>
- Discern the fear of the Lord and discover the knowledge of God.<sup>505</sup>
- The Lord gives wisdom; from His mouth comes knowledge and understanding.<sup>506</sup>

<sup>500</sup> God's Kingdom is an anarchistic one of liberty under God's exclusive rule, but disobedient statists seek worldly political organization in their own statist ambitions, only to reap the evils of their own wicked sowing.

<sup>501</sup> Men only find themselves living under the genuine threat of being attacked and invaded when they have neglected God's word and set up systems of human government, which are a terror to their evil works.

<sup>502</sup> Those who can't see that States are raised up against God's Law only confess that His Law is not written on their hearts, for anyone who knows the Lord can see that human governments are enemies of God.

<sup>503</sup> Statism is not just an intellectual error or education problem, but an ideological worldview that comes from a sinful, unregenerate heart that has yet to be changed by God's word speaking to their souls to repent.

<sup>504</sup> We know men lack the Lord's understanding when they cannot see that Egypt means their bondage rather than freedom, that this political slavery is the result of their own sin, or that they must repent to be free.

<sup>505</sup> If men truly cared to live in God's word and obey His teachings, such as the commands to not rob, steal, or murder, then we would never have States, which are founded on violating God's Law and instruction.

<sup>506</sup> God will reveal to men the anarchistic ways of His Kingdom if they sought to know His ways, such that we can only assume that those who don't know His Kingdom is not of this world have never known Him.

- He stores up sound wisdom for the upright.<sup>507</sup>
- He is a shield to those who walk with integrity.<sup>508</sup>
- Discern righteousness and justice and equity—every good path.<sup>509</sup>
- Wisdom will enter your heart and knowledge will delight your soul.<sup>510</sup>
- Discretion will watch over you, and understanding will guard you.<sup>511</sup>
- Keep to the paths of the righteous.<sup>512</sup>
- The upright will inhabit the land, and the blameless will remain in it.<sup>513</sup>

---

<sup>507</sup> Those who humble their hearts and seek the Lord will be shown His ways, but statist have been so consistently wicked that God has given them over to a reprobate mind where they are unable to see His truths.

<sup>508</sup> God extends His protection to those who seek His ways and keep His commands, yet men forfeit this divine defense when they walk in the wicked ways of the world, like seeking protection in human rulers.

<sup>509</sup> Men lack discernment for good and evil when they don't know the Lord, and this is why professing Christians today not only fail to identify the sin inherent to statism, but think these systems are God-approved.

<sup>510</sup> There is a spiritual experience that a man undergoes when he realizes the profundity of God's perfect law of liberty, and it keeps him wholly off the statist path and focused on seeking God's Kingdom alone.

<sup>511</sup> Those who know the Lord and His word see the dreadful consequences of bondage, invasion, or exile that come upon those who walk down the statist path, and they make preparation for the days of trouble.

<sup>512</sup> Men show that they do not seek to obey the Lord's command to stick to the righteous path when they join the State and serve as its soldiers or law officers, which is precisely how they walk on the wicked path of sin.

<sup>513</sup> Though evil men control statist systems that plunder people and their property, and though God allows it as a judgment against them for sometime, their systems of human domination will not last forever.

- The wicked will be cut off from the land, and the unfaithful will be uprooted.<sup>514</sup>
- Do not forget my teaching, but let your heart keep my commandments.<sup>515</sup>
- Trust in the Lord with all your heart, and lean not on your own understanding.<sup>516</sup>
- Be not wise in your own eyes, fear the Lord and turn away from evil.<sup>517</sup>
- Do not reject the discipline of the Lord, and do not loathe His rebuke.<sup>518</sup>
- Blessed is the man who finds wisdom, the man who acquires understanding.<sup>519</sup>

<sup>514</sup> The evil statists who plunder God's people for now will not be able to continue in their schemes forever, for unrighteousness inherent to the practices of statism ultimately come under judgment themselves.

<sup>515</sup> It is not without reason that God calls us to keep His law of liberty close to our hearts, for men who forget God and His ways inevitably erect systems of human government that bring about their ruin.

<sup>516</sup> If we had trusted in the Lord alone to serve us and save us, we would have never wound up as captives in Babylon to begin with, which was the result of men turning to their own ideas, philosophies, and thinking.

<sup>517</sup> Men who are wise in their own eyes disregard God and assume that it is permissible to serve Pharaohs and their systems of government for dishonest gain, but Godly men know this is to walk with the wicked.

<sup>518</sup> The statist bondage that comes upon men due to their own is intended by God to chastise them and show them their own evils, but statists often resist the divine rebuke of political slavery and cling to their old ways.

<sup>519</sup> There is not only great spiritual liberty in knowing God's word, but also physical liberty and material prosperity when men keep God's Law and avoid setting up human rulers who plunder and enslave them.

- Do not lose sight of this: Preserve sound judgment and discernment.<sup>520</sup>
- The Lord will be your confidence, and will keep your foot from the snare.<sup>521</sup>
- Do not devise evil against your neighbor.<sup>522</sup>
- Do not envy a violent man or choose any of his ways.<sup>523</sup>
- Let your heart lay hold of my words.<sup>524</sup>
- Keep my commands and you will live.<sup>525</sup>
- Do not forget my words or turn from them.<sup>526</sup>
- Wisdom is supreme, so acquire wisdom.<sup>527</sup>

<sup>520</sup> Men lose sight of God's word when they fall into the statist ideology and practices of the world, which could have been avoided if they had abided in God's wisdom and accepted His guidance.

<sup>521</sup> We have divine assurance on our side that if we seek the anarchistic Kingdom of God and look to live separately from the world, the Lord will help us avoid the statist traps of men, which only the ungodly fall into.

<sup>522</sup> To love our neighbors is the essence of God's law, yet it is what all statist violate when they call for the inherently socialistic monopolies of government law, justice, or welfare, which are funded in taxes.

<sup>523</sup> Statist plunder systems work in part because men see the income, power, and prestige that comes with serving them and decide that they are willing to put their feet to evil to evil for a share in the plunder.

<sup>524</sup> Those whose hearts have laid hold of God's word seek His anarchistic Kingdom only, and those who defend the existence of human civil government have listened to the voice of the devil in their ear.

<sup>525</sup> God's word is not just spiritual guidance to getting to heaven, as modern Christians make it out to be, but an anarchist instruction manual showing men the only way by which they can even live on earth.

<sup>527</sup> Wisdom is paramount considering that the knowledge of God is the only way to avoid the bondage of Egypt and combat the statist ideology behind the governments of man, which rely on selling lies to the foolish.

- Hold on to instruction, do not let go; Guard it, for it is your life.<sup>528</sup>
- Do not set foot on the path of the wicked or walk in the way of evildoers.<sup>529</sup>
- Avoid the path of evildoers; do not travel on it.<sup>530</sup>
- They cannot sleep unless they do evil.<sup>531</sup>
- They are deprived of slumber until they make someone fall.<sup>532</sup>
- Incline your ear to my sayings, Do not lose sight of them, keep them in your heart.<sup>533</sup>
- Put away deception from your mouth, keep your lips from perverse speech.<sup>534</sup>

<sup>528</sup> We ought to treat God's word as if our lives depend on it, for the price to pay for turning away from this divine wisdom is to find yourself walking on the statist road of bondage and judgment.

<sup>529</sup> Men would never become politicians, police, soldiers, judges, or government employees at all, if they obeyed God in His instruction to avoid the wicked path of sin and violence.

<sup>531</sup> The rulers of the world are so evil that they cannot even rest and find contentment unless they conspire against the people of the earth through the night and invent new ways to tighten their chains and destroy them.

<sup>532</sup> Whereas godly men are disturbed at the mere thought of harming others, the evil rulers of the world lose sleep unless they are plotting destruction against other men, which is the very thing that fuels them.

<sup>533</sup> Statism works its way over on society when men don't do as God says, fail to live in His word at all times, and digest its lessons constantly, which is the reason they have gone astray down the political path of the world.

<sup>534</sup> It was never just foul language that God finds abhorrent, but rather the lies used to uphold political plunder systems—say, as a statist ideologue or lying politician—that are most detestable to the Lord.

- Let your eyes look forward, fix your gaze straight ahead.<sup>535</sup>
- The iniquities of a wicked man entrap, the cords of his sin entangle.<sup>536</sup>
- The commandments are as a lamp.<sup>537</sup>
- The Lord's teaching is a light.<sup>538</sup>
- The reproofs of discipline are the way to life.<sup>539</sup>
- Keep my commandments and live.<sup>540</sup>
- Guard my teachings as the apple of your eye.<sup>541</sup>
- Tie [my commandments] to your fingers, write them on the tablet of your heart.<sup>542</sup>

---

<sup>535</sup> There are no pragmatic detours or political compromises with the government of the devil that men must make on the straight road to seeking God's Kingdom, which looks to abolish human archism.

<sup>536</sup> It is a man's sins—his idolatry for politicians, moral support for the theft and murder inherent to human government, or covetousness of his neighbors property for welfare benefits—that gets him in statist bondage.

<sup>537</sup> The law-word of God, which commands against idolatry and theft, is not just personal instruction for individuals, but lights the path forward to a free society and shows men the way out of Egypt.

<sup>538</sup> Statist societies have their origins in sin and rebellion against God and hearts and minds are further darkened under their rule, but God's word is a light in Egypt that shows men the way out of their political bondage.

<sup>539</sup> Though statists often prove they hate correction and despise reproof, the chastening of the Lord—having the yoke of statist bondage around our necks—is meant to lead men back to the need for God's anarchy.

<sup>540</sup> God's commands were never just some arbitrary suggestions for men to follow, but provide the very path of peace, prosperity, and life itself, with the alternative being war, poverty, labor camps, and genocide.

<sup>542</sup> If men hope to ever be free from a political slavery that came from rejecting God's word, this holy word will have to be at the forefront of their minds, the tips of their tongues, and a part of their very being.

- All the words of my mouth are righteous, none are crooked or perverse.<sup>543</sup>
- My words are plain to the discerning and upright to those who find knowledge.<sup>544</sup>
- Wisdom is more precious than rubies, and nothing you desire compares with her.<sup>545</sup>
- To fear the Lord is to hate evil.<sup>546</sup>
- I hate arrogant pride, evil conduct, and perverse speech.<sup>547</sup>
- Those who seek me early shall find me.<sup>548</sup>
- With me are riches and honor, enduring wealth and righteousness.<sup>549</sup>

<sup>543</sup> Unlike statist who preach the alleged blessings of human government, God would never lead men down a crooked path, hence why we're warned that the statist path will only be a curse to those who walk on it.

<sup>544</sup> The word of God comes naturally to men who have humbled their hearts and sought the divine truth; they are not in need of any footnotes explaining the anarchist political implications of scripture.

<sup>545</sup> Men ought to value God's wisdom over the world's wealth, because the tradeoff for being rich is apparently to become oblivious to the evil ways of the world and find yourself as a confused captive in Egypt.

<sup>546</sup> The primary way that men prove they are not God-fearing men is that they call evil good and good evil—they see the wicked system of human civil government as a blessing, and say that God's anarchy is wicked.

<sup>547</sup> Men cannot say they fear the Lord while they love the political ways of the world—whether the violence of Egypt's rulers or the statist ideology they preach—because to fear the Lord is to hate the evil.

<sup>548</sup> It is not that God has withheld the anarchist ways of His Kingdom from people and that we are part of some special club, but that statists have never sought to know the Lord as we have and so never found Him.

- My fruit is better than gold, pure gold, and my harvest surpasses choice silver.<sup>550</sup>
- Blessed are those who keep my ways.<sup>551</sup>
- Whoever finds me finds life.<sup>552</sup>
- All who hate me love death.<sup>553</sup>
- Leave your folly behind, and you will live; walk in the way of understanding.<sup>554</sup>
- Instruct a wise man, and he will be wiser still.<sup>555</sup>
- Teach a righteous man, and he will increase his learning.<sup>556</sup>
- Ill-gotten treasures profit nothing.<sup>557</sup>

---

<sup>550</sup> Men have never really sought the true peace, freedom, and prosperity of God's Kingdom, despite His promise to provide these things, but have always sought them—to no avail—through human governments.

<sup>551</sup> Men need to look no further than their statist political abandonment of God's anarchist society to wonder why they are cursed with taxation and slavery, rather than blessed with freedom and prosperity.

<sup>552</sup> Though Christianity is thought to be merely "religious" doctrines that are irrelevant to earthly concerns, keeping God's commandments are a matter of literal life or death—of liberty or the labor camp.

<sup>553</sup> Those men who turn away from God are not just "ungodly men" who don't know the Lord, but men whose rejection of God is characterized by murdering and plundering men through systems of human government.

<sup>554</sup> A repentant man renounces his statism and confesses that evil and worldly ideology which defends human rule to be the sinful and foolish old ways of the unregenerate man he used to be.

<sup>555</sup> God's people are ready for the truth and can accept correction for their growth, but God's word falls on deaf ears to ungodly masses who are too proud to learn and refuse to be rebuked for their statist idolatry.

<sup>556</sup> Whereas fools remain stubborn in their statist ways and refuse to repent for their Babylonian ways, righteous men can be corrected and grow in their understanding of God and His anarchist Kingdom.

<sup>557</sup> Though statists reason it is worth it to be socialists who rob their neighbors through government for incomes, benefits, and "public services," such covetous practices as these only end in societal judgment.

- Righteousness brings deliverance from death.<sup>558</sup>
- Blessings are on the head of the righteous, but the mouth of the wicked conceals violence.<sup>559</sup>
- The name of the wicked will rot.<sup>560</sup>
- A wise heart will receive commandments, but foolish lips will come to ruin.<sup>561</sup>
- The mouth of the righteous is a fountain of life, the mouth of the wicked conceals violence.<sup>562</sup>
- The wise store up knowledge, but the mouth of the fool invites destruction.<sup>563</sup>
- Whoever heeds instruction is on the path to life, but he who ignores reproof goes astray.<sup>564</sup>

---

<sup>558</sup> Walking in God's path—seeking His Kingdom at the exclusion of all others—is to literally avoid death, as the unrighteous path of statism means war, plunder, famines, gulags, genocide, and total social collapse.

<sup>559</sup> State rulers do all they can to avoid others realizing that violence and plunder are intrinsic to human government, so they operate their wicked schemes in the name of "public safety" or even "In God We Trust."

<sup>560</sup> The nauseating mentions of the names of presidents and politicians that dominate conversations everywhere will one day fade from memory, as men turn their sights away from Egypt and begin focusing on God.

<sup>561</sup> Those who seek to know the Lord accept the anarchistic Gospel of the Kingdom of God that liberates men from human governments, but those who preach statism destroy society and bring about their own demise.

<sup>562</sup> Those who know the anarchistic Gospel of the Kingdom of God preach it to other men so that they might turn from their destructive statist ways, but evil men refuse to teach others that statism destroys.

<sup>563</sup> While we work to thwart slavery with God's wisdom and teachings, we are severely outnumbered by fools who spew lies, fallacies, and deceptions that bring men into bondage to man's kingdoms.

<sup>564</sup> Learning the ways of the Lord is not just to amass wisdom without any real-world application, but to learn how to avoid the life-destroying road of statism that men who reject God's Law will go down.

- Destruction awaits those who do evil.<sup>565</sup>
- Dishonest scales are an abomination to the Lord, but a just weight is His delight.<sup>566</sup>
- With his mouth the ungodly man destroys his neighbor.<sup>567</sup>
- Through knowledge the righteous are rescued.<sup>568</sup>
- By the blessing of the upright a city is built up, but by the mouth of the wicked it is torn down.<sup>569</sup>
- Whoever shows contempt for his neighbor lacks judgment.<sup>570</sup>
- For lack of guidance, a nation falls, but with many counselors comes deliverance.<sup>571</sup>

---

<sup>565</sup> Though men pursue statist systems without thinking there any consequences for such violence and plunder, eventually the judgment becomes evident and statists get destroyed for their wicked works.

<sup>566</sup> God is against central bankers and their inflationary, fiat "money" schemes which, under the pretext of "economic policy," siphon-off wealth from the masses in a way that few men can even comprehend.

<sup>567</sup> Men come out violently against their neighbors when they start speaking of an alleged need for human governments and "public goods," which are always funded through robbery and maintained by violence.

<sup>568</sup> There is no hope for getting out of Egypt until men realize the kingdoms of the world are raised up in sin and that they need to repent, for our people have gone into captivity for their lack of knowledge.

<sup>569</sup> God will bless those who seek His Kingdom and His righteousness, but we face a destructive and plunderous enemy in the statists of the world, who fight against it by furthering the violent political systems of man.

<sup>570</sup> Anyone who advocates for the existence of human government hates their neighbors, because these systems are founded and funded on the compulsory offerings of taxation and violence against them.

<sup>571</sup> Those who can teach the central lessons of God's word to other people—namely, that statism is sin and brings about judgment—can quite literally "save" people from the destructive course they are on.

- A generous soul will prosper, and he who refreshes others will himself be refreshed.<sup>572</sup>
- He who trusts in his riches will fall.<sup>573</sup>
- He who hates correction is stupid.<sup>574</sup>
- The words of the wicked lie in wait for blood.<sup>575</sup>
- The one who works his land will have plenty of food.<sup>576</sup>
- Whoever chases fantasies lacks judgment.<sup>577</sup>
- The way of a fool is right in his own eyes, but a wise man listens to counsel.<sup>578</sup>

---

<sup>572</sup> In order to serve each other and find God's blessings, we must build the Kingdom of God by forming decentralized congregations of men who are linked together by servant-ministers in a vast network of charity.

<sup>573</sup> Riches in a statist society are almost wholly bound up with political plunder and legal privileges, which blinds men to seeing just how deeply entangled they are in a collapsing economic system.

<sup>574</sup> Statists refused to be corrected by the words of the Lord, teaching to put not their trust in princes, or the real-life judgment of having to live under these men, and so will have to be ruined for their stupidity.

<sup>575</sup> State rulers not only use physical violence, but also use their words to justify their predation, like branding godly men as "terrorist anarchists" and getting men to believe their own terrorism is just "law enforcement."

<sup>576</sup> Once men realize that trusting in Egypt for their protection and bread was a grave error that only leads to shortages and famines, they must return to the Dominion Mandate and seek to feed their families again.

<sup>577</sup> When men turn away from God, they begin pursuing their own statist fantasies, from drafting constitutions to the much more ambitious scheme of attempting to centrally-plan whole societies.

<sup>578</sup> Men believe they can come to the truth on their own and apart from God, which ends in raising up human governments, but true wisdom is listening to God, who keeps us from the many schemes of men.

- He who speaks the truth declares what is right, but a false witness speaks deceit.<sup>579</sup>
- Deceit is in the hearts of those who devise evil.<sup>580</sup>
- Lying lips are detestable to the Lord.<sup>581</sup>
- The slothful shall be under tribute.<sup>582</sup>
- A wise son hears his father's instruction; but a scorner hears not rebuke.<sup>583</sup>
- A righteous man hates lying.<sup>584</sup>
- Righteousness guards him whose way is blameless, but sin overthrows the wicked.<sup>585</sup>

---

<sup>579</sup> Godly men do not mince words or allow men to live under worldly deceptions that bring about their ruin; we call statism "violence and spoil" (Jeremiah 20:8) and warn men that it will mean their demise.

<sup>580</sup> Those who hatch political plots against us must come up with lies to support their evil intentions, such as citing "public health" to support mass vaccination schemes or "crime fighting" to justify mass surveillance.

<sup>581</sup> If the violence of the plunderous professions of politicians, police, prosecutors, or judges was not already detestable enough to God, we can add that these men must all lie and deceive as part of their everyday jobs.

<sup>582</sup> If we remain slothful to build God's Kingdom, by gathering with our neighbors to serve each other freely, we will find ourselves waiting in Pharaoh's breadline for his ration cards when statism brings famine.

<sup>583</sup> Like Pharaoh in Moses' time, who suffered under the plagues of God, statisticians are hard-hearted men who refuse to obey God despite the disastrous consequences that come upon those who never listen.

<sup>584</sup> We should find the lies of the political rulers detestable for being lies alone, but they are even worse than this, for their deceitful words are used to conceal the plunderous ambitions of those in power.

<sup>585</sup> God gave us good instruction for obtaining life, liberty, and prosperity by making the Lord our only King in an anarchist society, but statisticians destroy themselves in their own sin, follies, and fallacies.

- The light of the righteous rejoices: but the lamp of the wicked shall be put out.<sup>586</sup>
- Pride leads to conflict.<sup>587</sup>
- Wealth gained by dishonesty will be diminished, but he who gathers by labor will increase.<sup>588</sup>
- He who despises the word shall be destroyed.<sup>589</sup>
- He who fears the commandment shall be rewarded.<sup>590</sup>
- The law of the wise is a fountain of life, to depart from the snares of death.<sup>591</sup>
- A wicked messenger falls into trouble: but a faithful ambassador brings health.<sup>592</sup>

---

<sup>586</sup> We have every reason to rejoice, seeing as our Lord God plans to put an end to the plunderers who currently boast of how strong and organized they are against us, but whose domination will be ended.

<sup>587</sup> Threats of violence, wars, embargoes, trade restrictions, tariffs, and enmity between men in general, only happens when statist pride and patriotism works to separate them from loving one another.

<sup>588</sup> There is only plunder and private production—the political and the economic means respectively—and those statist who plunder others, rather than serve them, will be torn down by God.

<sup>589</sup> When men turn away from the words and wisdom of God as their indispensable guide to life and liberty, they turn toward the statist and socialist ideologies of the world that enslave and destroy them.

<sup>590</sup> When we know and fear the consequences of disobeying God, like the tax-bondage, gulags, famines, war, imprisonment, or impoverishment that comes upon those who walk the statist path, then we can avoid them.

<sup>591</sup> God does not just call men to another kingdom model because He is arbitrarily jealous, but because it is the very means of avoiding the inevitable destruction and death that comes under statist legal systems.

<sup>592</sup> The wicked statist propagandists of the world spread the false gospel of salvation under a State to the demise of a people, but Godly men bring the anarchist gospel of the Kingdom of God to men for their salvation.

- Poverty and shame will come to him who ignores instruction.<sup>593</sup>
- He that heeds reproof shall be honored.<sup>594</sup>
- He who walks with the wise will become wise, but the companion of fools will be destroyed.<sup>595</sup>
- He who walks in his uprightness fears the Lord.<sup>596</sup>
- He who is perverse in his ways despises the Lord.<sup>597</sup>
- A scoffer seeks wisdom but does not find it.<sup>598</sup>
- Knowledge is easy to him who understands.<sup>599</sup>
- Go from the presence of a foolish man when you do not perceive in him the lips of knowledge.<sup>600</sup>

---

<sup>593</sup> Those who refuse to hear and heed the words of the Lord—repent and seek the Kingdom of God in exclusion to all other kingdoms—will find themselves impoverished and enslaved under the statist systems of men.

<sup>594</sup> As embarrassing as it might be for men to admit they have been fooled their whole lives and in great error and sin to have walked on the Egyptian road, let them know that God honors such repentance as this.

<sup>595</sup> Too many people are enamored by false prophets of the institutional churches and seminaries who pitch statism as compatible with the Kingdom of God, when these men are only leading them to ruin.

<sup>596</sup> Contrary to ungodly statist who fear no consequences for their evildoing, the God-fearing man is characterized as one who knows that statism brings judgment upon a people and avoids these sinful errors.

<sup>597</sup> All those who walk on the statist path, whether the men who enforce Egypt's "laws" or those who defend these systems from the sidelines, are men who are perverse in their ways and who, therefore, hate God.

<sup>598</sup> When men mock the anarchistic Kingdom of God and defend the worldly ideology of statism for long enough, God shuts off their eyes and ears to the truth and assures they continue on a path of self-destruction.

<sup>599</sup> The truths of God are "plain to the discerning" (Proverbs 8:9), such that the anarchist Gospel of the Kingdom is easily received by humble men, but statist are too proud to find it and fight against it all the way.

<sup>600</sup> Though we should drop the truth on all men, sometimes we should dust our feet of the statist idolaters of the world who can't be shaken and give the anarchistic Gospel of God's Kingdom to humble laymen.

- The house of the wicked will be overthrown, but the tent of the upright will flourish.<sup>601</sup>
- There is a way that seems right to a man, but its end is the way of death.<sup>602</sup>
- A wise man fears and departs from evil, but a fool rages and is self-confident.<sup>603</sup>
- The poor is hated even by his own neighbor: but the rich have many friends.<sup>604</sup>
- He who despises his neighbor sins.<sup>605</sup>
- The fear of the Lord is a fountain of life, to depart from the snares of death.<sup>606</sup>
- He who oppresses the poor reproaches his Maker.<sup>607</sup>

---

<sup>601</sup> All of the world's human governments, which are all raised up against God, will eventually be judged for their wickedness, and we will build God's anarchist Kingdom on the ashes of these Egyptian plunder systems.

<sup>602</sup> Statists imagine their social inventions can be willed into existence with enough political force, but Godly men know that socialism leads to death and that the Egyptian path only impoverishes and destroys.

<sup>603</sup> Those who truly fear the Lord and come to know Him will repent from evil work like enforcing the "laws" of men, but those who continue in their evils are proud and have denied the Lord's voice.

<sup>604</sup> It is a great shame that the poor masses, who could be gathering together to organize God's Kingdom and live apart from the world, have instead conspired against each other and given into the statist society.

<sup>605</sup> Those who vote for men to rule over their neighbors, or who receive tax-funded benefits that are paid at their expense, are men who hate their neighbors and who, therefore, have turned away from God.

<sup>606</sup> To learn the fear of the Lord is not just a suggestion, but a matter of life and death, since those who do not know of the evils that will come upon them should they go down the road to Egypt will be destroyed.

<sup>607</sup> Those who rule over the poor for a living, such as police whose paychecks are funded through taxes and whose jobs are upholding a system of slavery, may as well, in God's eyes, be robbing the Lord Himself.

- Righteousness exalts a nation: but sin is a reproach to any people.<sup>608</sup>
- The tongue of the wise uses knowledge rightly, but the mouth of fools pours forth foolishness.<sup>609</sup>
- The eyes of the Lord are in every place, keeping watch on the evil and the good.<sup>610</sup>
- In the house of the righteous is much treasure: but in the revenues of the wicked is trouble.<sup>611</sup>
- The lips of the wise disperse knowledge: but the heart of the fool does not do so.<sup>612</sup>
- Harsh discipline is for him who forsakes the way.<sup>613</sup>
- He who hates correction will die.<sup>614</sup>

---

<sup>608</sup> Righteous men who are filled with the Holy Spirit lead their people to seek God's Kingdom as the only alternative to Egyptian bondage, while sinners pursue statist systems that lead to their destruction.

<sup>609</sup> Whereas men of God are careful about their speech, never wanting to corrupt God's word or lead others astray, the statist reprobates of the world feed us on an endless barrage of foolish and ruinous ideas.

<sup>610</sup> Those who argue that Christians must take over the government to prevent evil men from taking power forget that God is taking note of evildoers, and that our purpose is to seek the good and trust in God.

<sup>611</sup> For some time, state rulers are filled with pride for having risen to the top of a satanic plunder system that loots the masses and keeps them as their slaves, but such political schemes only bring trouble in the end.

<sup>612</sup> Godly men must teach others the anti-statist ways of His Kingdom, as we're up against a slew of statist propagandists who defend man's kingdoms while claiming to know the Lord.

<sup>613</sup> The more we fight against God's correction, such as by deviating from His Kingdom and pursuing the human kingdoms of the world, the harsher the rebuke will be that comes upon us for this sin.

<sup>614</sup> If men will not learn their lesson as captives in Egypt, allow the evils of state rule to serve as divine correction, straighten up their ways, and repent for the sins which led to their bondage, it will be the end of them.

- Better is a little with the fear of the Lord, than great treasure with trouble.<sup>615</sup>
- Folly is joy to him who is destitute of discernment.<sup>616</sup>
- The Lord will destroy the house of the proud.<sup>617</sup>
- The heart of the righteous studies how to answer, but the mouth of the wicked pours forth evil.<sup>618</sup>
- Before honor is humility.<sup>619</sup>
- Commit thy works unto the Lord, and thy thoughts shall be established.<sup>620</sup>
- When a man's ways please the Lord, He makes even his enemies to be at peace with him.<sup>621</sup>

---

<sup>615</sup> It is better to be poor and know the Lord and the anarchist ways of His Kingdom, than to have all the wealth of the world but be blinded to the precious teachings of the Lord that show men the way out of Egypt.

<sup>616</sup> Those who are blind to the evils of the world are able to find great pleasure in the very things that bring their demise, like worldly politics or the bread and circuses put on to distract them from their slavery.

<sup>617</sup> The political plunderers of the world are kicking back and counting their booty for now, believing that no one can stop them in their evildoing, but God will bring down their high places in the end.

<sup>618</sup> Those who know the anarchistic Gospel of the Kingdom of God were humble enough to find it, while statist proudly and confidently spew lies from their mouths, which work to bring whole societies down.

<sup>619</sup> Before men can be elevated to spiritual riches, they must humble themselves enough to find the truth, but statist demand respect for their intellect without ever having proven themselves humble and wise.

<sup>620</sup> The statist of the world, who commit their ways to furthering the governments of the devil, have never discovered the ways of God's anarchistic Kingdom because they have never sought to follow the Lord.

<sup>621</sup> Contrary to the sinful thinking of statist, who tell us we must raise up human rulers to keep away other statist, criminals, or foreigners, all we must do for our security plan is obey God and seek His Kingdom.

- Better is a little with righteousness than great revenues without right.<sup>622</sup>
- Pride goes before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall.<sup>623</sup>
- Better to be of a humble spirit with the lowly, than to divide spoils with the proud.<sup>624</sup>
- There is a way that seems right to a man, but the end is the way of death.<sup>625</sup>
- [A violent man] shuts his eyes to devise perverse things.<sup>626</sup>
- An evildoer gives heed to false lips; a liar listens eagerly to a naughty tongue.<sup>627</sup>
- A reproof enters more into a wise man than a hundred stripes into a fool.<sup>628</sup>

---

<sup>622</sup> It is better to be a poor man who earns his income through his own private production, than to serve the State and earn an unjust income through robbing your neighbors and participating in their enslavement.

<sup>623</sup> The proud patriots of the world build up powerful political machines and become so lost in the idolatry, glory, and military might of their evil empires, that they do not even see their fall coming.

<sup>624</sup> Though we should choose poverty and righteousness over sharing in the state's theft, and even building each other up so none of us depends on it, many men reason they should join the State to secure an income.

<sup>625</sup> Men may think they know what's right for them, but without the word of God as their guide, they only end up inventing artificial socialist orders in their mind that end up killing men once put into practice.

<sup>626</sup> Whereas righteous men would never partake in the violence of policing and condemn these systems as evil, wicked men adopt the "blue wall of silence" and don't speak out against the crimes they witness.

<sup>627</sup> Unless one has a clean heart and the spirit of the Lord, they are prone to buying into the statist fallacies of other men and consuming the lies of false prophets who tell them that God wants us to be ruled by men.

<sup>628</sup> Godly men are hungry for God's truths and see that the man-made kingdoms of the world are His enemies, but statist's hearts are so hardened to the truth that it couldn't be beaten into them.

- He who justifies the wicked and condemns the just [is] an abomination to the Lord.<sup>629</sup>
- To punish the just is not good.<sup>630</sup>
- A fool's mouth is his destruction, and his lips are the snare of his soul.<sup>631</sup>
- Better is the poor who walks in his integrity, than one who is perverse in his lips, and is a fool.<sup>632</sup>
- Wealth makes many friends; but the poor is separated from his neighbors.<sup>633</sup>
- Many seek the favor of the prince, and everyone is a friend of the gift giver.<sup>634</sup>

---

<sup>629</sup> The very statist ideology—the idea that human rulers are necessary to law, justice, and social order in general—is a justification for the wicked and condemnation of the just, which is an abomination before God.

<sup>630</sup> Though sinners believe human government is a righteous institution that exists only to punish "bad guys," its actual origins are in robbing the non-criminal masses and perverting justice for their own gain.

<sup>631</sup> Unable to think or speak clearly, statist bring themselves to ruin, defending systems of government that they thought were for their protection and welfare, but which proved only to trap them in bondage.

<sup>632</sup> It is better to be a humble, lowly, and lonely soul who has the anti-statist word of God written on his heart, than to be one of the loud-mouthed, popular, and platformed false prophets of statism.

<sup>633</sup> The solution for the isolated masses, who have turned to Roman systems for their welfare and gone into bondage, is to gather together in congregations of men seeking the Kingdom of God together.

<sup>634</sup> By doling out tax-funded benefits, incomes, retirements, privileges, licenses, property, subsidies, grants, and loans, statist systems make dependent slaves who apologize for their own bondage.

- Listen to counsel and receive instruction, that you may be wise in your latter days.<sup>635</sup>
- Many plans are in a man's heart, but the purpose of the Lord will prevail.<sup>636</sup>
- The fear of the Lord leads to life, and whoever has it rests satisfied [and] will not be visited by evil.<sup>637</sup>
- Who can say, I have made my heart clean, I am pure from my sin?<sup>638</sup>
- Love not sleep, lest thou come to poverty.<sup>639</sup>
- Do not say, "I will recompense evil"; Wait for the Lord, and He will save you.<sup>640</sup>

---

<sup>635</sup> Few men really seek the wisdom and instruction of the Lord or hear the rebuke of their statist idolatry by his prophets, hence why they remain lifelong defenders of the political philosophy of the world that God hates.

<sup>636</sup> The seemingly endless variety of statist political philosophies and practices, from communist and socialism to constitutionalism and democracy are the inventions of men who are not grounded in the Lord.

<sup>637</sup> If men trusted in and feared the Lord alone, they would actually be kept from the evils they seek to avoid through human governments, which are founded in the fear of men and of God's liberty.

<sup>638</sup> We should strive to have no evils in our hearts, such that we purge from our being the idolatry and violence that comes along with holding to the worldly ideology of statism and turn our eyes back to the Lord.

<sup>639</sup> If men are slothful to build the Kingdom of God by serving others and fulfill the Dominion Mandate and remain productive for their families, they will find themselves impoverished in a statist society instead.

<sup>640</sup> The State is based in vengeance, and all those who believe they must control it to crush their enemies prove themselves disobedient to the divine command to trust in God alone as their protection plan.

- To do justice and judgment is more acceptable to the Lord than sacrifice.<sup>641</sup>
- The violence of the wicked will destroy them, because they refuse to do justice.<sup>642</sup>
- Whoever loves pleasure will be poor; he who loves wine and oil will not be rich.<sup>643</sup>
- He who follows righteousness and mercy finds life, righteousness, and honor.<sup>644</sup>
- A wise man scales the city of the mighty, and brings down the trusted stronghold.<sup>645</sup>
- The horse is prepared for the day of battle, but deliverance is of the Lord.<sup>646</sup>

---

<sup>641</sup> God is not impressed by the vain rituals, ceremonies, singalongs, sermons, and performances of churchians, but wants to see men who keep His commands and seek the Kingdom of God with their neighbors.

<sup>642</sup> Though statists outsource law and justice to the State in expectation of social order, they only succeed in erecting a system of legal plunder that perverts those things and oppresses them as judgment for this sin.

<sup>643</sup> Whereas worldly men are content to eat up the temporary luxuries of Babylon that keep them complacent in this unsustainable system, Godly men think long-term and seek a Kingdom that will outlast theirs.

<sup>644</sup> Though modern Christians have been more or less trained to think that we can't seek righteousness because all men are dreadful sinners, God calls us to seek His Kingdom and says He blesses such righteous work.

<sup>645</sup> If we took God's anarchist gospel to the lost statists of the world and exposed their trust in Babylonian political systems as idolatrous, sinful, and a mental slavery that keeps in bondage, we could help free them.

<sup>646</sup> Men spend great efforts and resources setting up governments, raising up human kings, and building powerful militaries and police forces to save themselves, but salvation and freedom comes only from the Lord.

- A prudent man foresees evil and hides himself.<sup>647</sup>
- Train up a child in the way he should go, when he is old he will not depart from it.<sup>648</sup>
- He who oppresses the poor to increase his riches...will surely come to poverty.<sup>649</sup>
- Do not rob the poor because he is poor, nor oppress the afflicted at the gate.<sup>650</sup>
- The Lord will...plunder the souls of those who plunder [the poor].<sup>651</sup>
- Be not desirous of [the ruler's] dainties: for they are deceitful meat.<sup>652</sup>

---

<sup>647</sup> Those who have read God's prophets know that idolatrous, statist people invite divine judgment upon themselves, and they look to assemble with others to seek God's Kingdom and avert this disaster.

<sup>648</sup> One of the main reasons human governments endure is that children are not raised on the politics of God's anarchist Kingdom but are passed off to Caesar's public school system to become Romans instead.

<sup>649</sup> Human civil government is one giant, socialist plunder scheme where men—ignoring God's Law and warnings of curses for evildoing—set up a system of legalized robbery to extort the masses for their own gain.

<sup>650</sup> All of the ethical commands that God gives to men—do not rob the poor, oppress the foreigner, or murder men—are systematically violated by systems of human government, which are raised up against His Law.

<sup>651</sup> All of the warnings of judgment that God gives us are more or less directed squarely at systems of human governments and the idolaters who support them, who together work to violate the liberties of men.

<sup>652</sup> We must resist the tax-funded benefits and incomes that the rulers of the world tempt men to accept, for such covetous practices as these are the very way that men consent to their own bondage under Egyptians.

- Do not speak to a fool, for he will despise the wisdom of your words.<sup>653</sup>
- Apply your heart to instruction, and your ears to words of knowledge.<sup>654</sup>
- Do not let your heart envy sinners: but be in the fear of the Lord all the day long.<sup>655</sup>
- Guide your heart in the way.<sup>656</sup>
- Do not be envious of evil men, nor desire to be with them.<sup>657</sup>
- Their hearts devise violence, and their lips talk of troublemaking.<sup>658</sup>
- A wise man is strong; yea, a man of knowledge increases strength.<sup>659</sup>

---

<sup>653</sup> Though we must evangelize to the lost masses and teach them that statism is sin which leads to bondage, it is also wise at times to dust our feet of the hardheaded reprobates who won't hear us and keep moving.

<sup>654</sup> The anarchistic gospel of God's Kingdom is what men discover when they seek out the politics of the Lord, and the ideology of statism is what men hold to when they buy into the political philosophy of the world.

<sup>655</sup> Those who seek to join the statist systems of the world for a share in the power, plunder, or prestige, fall into the sins of Egypt, when they should be trusting in the Lord to provide for all their needs.

<sup>656</sup> It is the God-given responsibility of all men to fix their hearts on the instruction and ways of the Lord if they wish to avoid the wide, statist road of destruction that men who stray from God's wisdom walk on.

<sup>657</sup> When men see the incomes and benefits that come with serving as one of Pharaoh's police officers or soldiers, they turn away from the voice of the Lord telling them not to envy the wicked or walk among them.

<sup>658</sup> While godly men preach God's anarchist gospel that liberates men from bondage, state rulers are in an active conspiracy to plunder and enslave the masses and spend all their days plotting better ways to do it.

<sup>659</sup> The saying "knowledge is power" is highly relevant for men in political bondage, for States rule not by force alone but by inculcating slavish opinions among men who are destroyed for their lack of knowledge.

- Will He not render to each man according to his deeds?<sup>660</sup>
- Do not rejoice when your enemy falls, and let not your heart be glad when he stumbles.<sup>661</sup>
- Do not fret because of evildoers, nor be envious of the wicked.<sup>662</sup>
- The candle of the wicked shall be put out.<sup>663</sup>
- Do not say, “I will do to him just as he has done to me; I will render to the man according to his work.”<sup>664</sup>
- Debate thy cause with thy neighbor himself.<sup>665</sup>
- If your enemy is hungry, give him bread to eat; and if he is thirsty, give him water to drink.<sup>666</sup>

---

<sup>660</sup> Those who think that righteousness doesn't matter or reason they may become police because they're saved by grace do not heed the warnings in God's word, showing that He punishes those who walk the wicked path.

<sup>661</sup> The wicked rulers of the world are overdue for God's judgment, but we ought not be too quick to celebrate, lest we fall back into the slothful and complacent ways that gave rise to these systems in the first place.

<sup>662</sup> We may sometimes grow weary seeing that the absolutely evil men who rule the world are prospering for now through their mass robbery of the people, but we must trust that God will deal with them in the end.

<sup>663</sup> Praise the Lord our God, the wicked schemes of statist—plundering the masses for trillions of dollars and setting up a police state against them—cannot last forever and are being eyed by God for judgment.

<sup>664</sup> The mercy and forgiveness taught by Jesus Christ poses a challenge to the retributive idea of justice practiced by the vengeance-based political systems of the world today, which Godly men will have to reconsider.

<sup>665</sup> Against those who outsource their personal responsibilities to human governments and go into bondage under these systems as a result, we ought to settle our disputes with others directly and privately (1 Cor 6).

<sup>666</sup> We would be quite the witness to statist—heaping coals of fire on their heads—if we had an active network of charity that had us in a position to serve the very people who openly hate us.

- Do not answer a fool according to his folly, lest you also be like him.<sup>667</sup>
- Answer a fool according to his folly, lest he be wise in his own eyes.<sup>668</sup>
- Better is a neighbor nearby than a brother far away.<sup>669</sup>
- Iron sharpens iron.<sup>670</sup>
- Those who forsake the law praise the wicked.<sup>671</sup>
- Evil men do not understand justice, but those who seek the Lord understand all.<sup>672</sup>
- Better a poor man who walks with integrity than a rich man whose ways are perverse.<sup>673</sup>

---

<sup>667</sup> Though many false converts abound who need the true, anarchist Gospel of the Kingdom of God, there are times when we need to discern whether or not to engage with them, especially as they set traps for us.

<sup>668</sup> We cannot allow all foolish talk to slide past us, and sometimes it is necessary to combat it head-on, or else some statist idolater might continue to believe they are right and cannot be rebutted or rebuked.

<sup>669</sup> As we begin to build God's Kingdom and organize congregations of men who gather specifically to serve each other, proximity will be of great importance, especially when it comes to mutual protection.

<sup>670</sup> All those men who are seeking the literal Kingdom of God are in need of likeminded men to teach them, correct them, build them up, and help keep them holy, not to mention plot ways of evangelizing the lost.

<sup>671</sup> When men turn away from God's Law, which forbids them from having other gods than the Lord, they end up praising presidents, soldiers, and police as their kings, saviors, and heroes.

<sup>672</sup> Those who support human government are evil at heart and have a perverted sense of law and justice, yet God has shown a remnant the wickedness that is inherent in the political systems of man.

<sup>673</sup> Though men are tempted to wish they were among the wealthy of the world who are lost in its ways, it is all the more glorious to be among the lowly and to know the Lord and the Gospel of God's Kingdom.

- One who turns away his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer is an abomination.<sup>674</sup>
- The one who works his land will have plenty of food.<sup>675</sup>
- He who rebukes a man will find more favor afterward than he who flatters with the tongue.<sup>676</sup>
- He who trusts in the Lord will be prospered.<sup>677</sup>
- He who trusts in himself is a fool.<sup>678</sup>
- He who gives to the poor will not lack, but he who hides his eyes will have many curses.<sup>679</sup>

---

<sup>674</sup> Though statisticians think God should listen to them even as they pray to worldly governments to save them, God says He doesn't hear the prayers of the wicked and that sin builds barriers between men and God.

<sup>675</sup> If men were actively attending to the Dominion Mandate by working to provide for their own families on their homestead, they would not face the famines that come to those who trust in Egypt for their bread.

<sup>676</sup> Though it's always easier to allow men to remain in sin than to rebuke them, as false prophets do for all the statisticians who claim the Lord's name, it is better to rebuke them now and plant seeds they may later appreciate.

<sup>677</sup> If men were really concerned about liberty and prosperity, they would trust in God for all their needs, rather than pursue an endless number of political schemes as their means of achieving these ends.

<sup>678</sup> Alongside those who trust in human government to order their societies for them, are those who trust in themselves and think they can go about liberty without God on their side.

<sup>679</sup> When men outsource their personal responsibilities to serve others to human governments, rather than perform these duties directly and freely in an anarchist society, they find themselves in bondage to these systems.

Ecclesiastes

- What has been will be again, and what has been done will be done again.<sup>680</sup>
- There is nothing new under the sun.<sup>681</sup>
- With much wisdom comes much sorrow, and as knowledge grows, grief increases.<sup>682</sup>
- Apart from [God], who can eat and who can find enjoyment?<sup>683</sup>
- In the place of justice, there was wickedness.<sup>684</sup>
- It is better to be a poor but wise youth than an old and foolish king who refuses all advice.<sup>685</sup>

---

<sup>680</sup> The State is an ancient plunder system and all the political institutions that exist today are a repeat of the Babylonian schemes of old that men continue to trust in for their welfare, justice, protection, and salvation.

<sup>681</sup> Despite coming off as cutting-edge, all of the political ideologies that men invent today, such as the "scientific socialism" of Karl Marx or the "New Economics" of John M. Keynes, are just rebranded fallacies of old.

<sup>682</sup> Statists are content with the world around them because they are in a state of blissful ignorance, but God's people, who know that statism is sin and bondage, are grieved that others refuse to hear this word of the Lord.

<sup>683</sup> Men better soon realize that God's commands were not arbitrary, but that their very ability to eat and live depends on obeying His Law, which forbids men from erecting human governments that plunder and destroy.

<sup>684</sup> Though most men believe human civil government exists to provide "law and order," such so-called "Departments of Justice" are, in fact, centers of injustice and corruption who institutionalize their crime.

<sup>685</sup> Rather than aspiring for political power and becoming one of the men whose hearts and minds are far from the Lord, men should instead seek to know the Lord and His ways and remain among the lowly of society.

- One official is watched by a superior, and others higher still are over them.<sup>686</sup>
- Sorrow is better than laughter, for a sad countenance is good for the heart.<sup>687</sup>
- It is better to heed a wise man's rebuke than to listen to the song of fools.<sup>688</sup>
- Extortion turns a wise man into a fool, and a bribe corrupts the heart.<sup>689</sup>
- Do not be quickly provoked in your spirit.<sup>690</sup>
- Wisdom preserves the life of its owner.<sup>691</sup>
- Wisdom makes the wise man stronger than ten rulers in a city.<sup>692</sup>

<sup>686</sup> States create a system of passing the buck, where soldiers and police can excuse their violence by saying "we're just following orders," "we're just doing our jobs," or "we don't make the laws, we just enforce them."

<sup>687</sup> Many men today are revelling in the bread and circuses of our Roman society, when they should be weeping over their bondage, repenting for the sins that led to it, and praying to God for liberation.

<sup>688</sup> Men are often so stubborn that they would rather listen to the lies of false converts who preach the gospel of statism in the so-called churches, than to hear the rebukes of the righteous calling out their idolatry as sin.

<sup>689</sup> Only those with already-corrupted hearts seek to serve political plunder systems in the first place, but it is still true that power corrupts, and these men grow even more wicked as they serve them.

<sup>690</sup> The evil-hearted men of the world who reject the anarchist gospel of the Kingdoms of God—that the Lord frees men from the dominion of man—seek to anger those who preach it, but we must not give into them.

<sup>691</sup> We are going to need divine wisdom to persevere in this statist society around us, because we are up against a bunch of Babylonian whores who defend the kingdoms of man as the "God-ordained" political order.

<sup>692</sup> It is not physical strength, but rather the spiritual-intellectual weapon given to us by God, that makes us strong against the statist of the world, who really have nothing on us in their reliance on horses and chariots.

- Among a thousand I have found one upright man.<sup>693</sup>
- God made man upright, but they have sought out many schemes.<sup>694</sup>
- There are righteous men who get what the actions of the wicked deserve.<sup>695</sup>
- There are wicked men who get what the actions of the righteous deserve.<sup>696</sup>
- A poor wise man was found in the city, and he saved the city by his wisdom.<sup>697</sup>
- The calm words of the wise are heeded.<sup>698</sup>
- Wisdom is better than weapons of war.<sup>699</sup>

---

<sup>693</sup> We have before us the often discouraging evangelist task of agitating the masses to hear the anarchistic gospel of God's Kingdom, among which only one in a few thousand men—at best—will hear us.

<sup>694</sup> God made men to live under His anarchistic natural order, but they revolted against this free society and sought many statist and socialist schemes in their political rebellion against His rule.

<sup>695</sup> Though the world's wicked rulers should be the ones being punished for their evils, in a statist society where justice is perverted, they are the ones running free and sitting in office while non-criminals sit in cages.

<sup>696</sup> Though blessings would be unto the righteous in a free society under God's rule, statist societies reward evil-doing with wealth and power, as a judgment against the wicked works of those who support their existence.

<sup>697</sup> We can never underestimate the work that one agitator, bringing the Gospel message to men to repent of their statist idolatry and seek the Kingdom of God, can do to turn a society around and free his people.

<sup>698</sup> Since men who hate the truth dismiss it for its tone, we should attempt to be as tactful, clear, and confident as possible when evangelizing others in the anarchistic Gospel of God's Kingdom, in hopes it will be heard.

<sup>699</sup> Those who dream of revolution fail to see we are in a struggle against sin and statist ideology, and that what we need are repentant men whose hearts become regenerated back to seeking the Kingdom of God.

- Remember your Creator.<sup>700</sup>
- Fear God and keep His commandments, because this is the whole duty of man.<sup>701</sup>

---

<sup>700</sup> Men fail to remember their Creator when they embark upon raising up and supporting systems of human government, which are founded on forgetting and forsaking God to serve false gods instead (1 Sam 8:7-8).

<sup>701</sup> The institutionalists of the world make "religion" into the vain rituals and sophist sermons found in "church services," but the essence of pure religion is gathering to love and and physically serve your neighbors.
